Miss Guinan Comes Home.
Wheat, Copper Down.
Roosevelt on His Way.
Ancient Beauty.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MISS TEXAS GUINAN, night club lady of New York, barred from France, also from England, was touched when a gallant Englishman offered to marry her, and to make it possible for her to enter England. But Miss Guinan said no, and sailed away, leaving the gentleman, as he admitted, "without out money to get back to London."

Miss Guinan, a philosopher, says, as she sails for home:

"An indiscretion a day keeps depression away."

She went aboard the ship "wearing a velvet riding habit, patent leather boots and a white beret." The Englishman that didn't marry her is as well off. It would be too much of a job for any one Englishman.

GOOD NEWS of the wheat crop in Texas, enormous crops. And that, as usual, was bad news for wheat growers. Under our intelligent system of agriculture and marketing, good crops in wheat or cotton mean trouble and poor prices for farmers.

With a cessation of government buying and "pyramiding," the price of American wheat fell sharply yesterday, as might be expected. In one hour June wheat dropped 12½ cents in Chicago.

Old "Supply and Demand" is patient, waits and wins.

WHILE OUR farmers mourn about "too much wheat" and other Americans mourn too much cotton, coal, oil, etc., Russia is rejoicing in the certainty of a bumper wheat harvest, a crop of 1,314,000,000 bushels, and a surplus, for dumping, of 250,000,000 bushels.

A great wheat crop means cash for Russia, sorrow for other nations. There must be good businessmen in Russia, in spite of their "fanciful theories."

MANY POLITICIANS taking for granted Gov. Roosevelt's nomination by the Democrats in 1932 are concentrating on "who will run for vice president?"

It takes a brave or reckless man to undertake the running of this country just now. Those "out of it" are perhaps fortunate. But love of public office is a passion.

A thousand men would have accepted the nomination for mayor of Pompeii after the ashes began falling, if there had been mayors in Pompeii.

LEADERS OF young people's Catholic organizations in Rome, arrested, are held, possibly for deportation to Lipari, an island penitentiary reserved for political offenders. The honorary general president of the Italian Catholic young people's organization is among those arrested.

Mayor Curley, of Boston, now in Rome, after an interview with the Italian king, says the Italian and papal governments will soon straighten out their troubles. But the facts are not encouraging.

The worst of anti-Catholic disturbance is the destruction of beautiful churches and ancient monasteries. Political and religious troubles can be straightended out and forgotten. But ancient works of art destroyed can never be replaced. Respect for their country, if not for their religion, should prevent such irreparable outrages.

IN NEW YORK two automobiles loaded with gangsters settled their differences yesterday with machine guns in the crowded street. A few were killed. The police know who they are and what beer running organizations and rivalries they represent.

But until rivals in the world of crime and bootlegging begin killing each other in public, police appear unable to do anything about them.

Two boys of 15, starting their New York career of crime early, held up a store. One was shot.

We live in a crime age and bootlegging brought it on us. What brought bootlegging?

THE GENERAL Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in Pittsburgh, approves "a national daily newspaper, to be distinctively Christian in its spirit and outlook, and to stand for our highest ideals." The assembly thinks such a newspaper, "adequately financed," would be of great benefit to the cause of righteousness.

It would, of course, and it would have to be VERY adequately financed.

It would be hard for the able editor and manager to remain "distinctively Christian in spirit" after being in the newspaper business a little while, and learning how this country is really run.

Could you, for instance, imagine what the good Presbyterian editor would think, feel and say when he discovered that the really enthusiastic supporters of prohibition are bootleggers, gangsters and speakeasy men?

A STEP in the right direction of common sense is the government's decision not to appeal against the court order authorizing a merger of the Vacuum Oil Company with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The merger would stop unnecessary waste and expense. It is time to get rid of the hampering, wasteful effects of the antiquated Sherman act.

JOHN KANE

Carnegie Exhibitor Only Mildly Surprised Over Furore

The works of John Kane, house painter, who annually surprised the art world by crashing the Carnegie International Exhibition, were the center of interest of that world again today.

The latest sensation was stirred by the revelation that some of the paintings Kane has placed in exhibits were colored photographs.

Kane, admitting that in some instances he has worked on enlargements of pictures clipped from publications, was mildly surprised at the concern over the disclosure.

ARTIST MAKES DISCOVERY

A Pittsburgh artist, Milan Petrovits, made the discovery. Petrovits says his suspicions were first aroused by Kane's painting, "Dad's Pay Day," in the last Associated Artists exhibition in February. Oils in the Junior League exhibit, now hanging in the Clark Building, next caught his eye. Varnish remover took the paint from one, "The Doctor," revealing a photograph underneath.

The discovery led to suspicion of all Kane paintings. John, former mill worker, untutored and poor, denied today that any of the works he has done on canvas are painted photographs. Few of his paintings on paper, he said, are photographs. Kane declared:

"Why, those smaller subjects, some of them I put up in a hurry

MINE STRIKERS ROUTED BY TEAR GAS

Women in Fleeing Crowds As Officers Attack; More Workers Join in Walkout

Tear gas used by Washington County deputy sheriffs today put to rout between 200 and 300 mine pickets, many of them women, in a mass demonstration of strikers at the Cedar Grove mine near Avella, according to a report.

Nobody was injured and no arrests were made.

Sheriff J. A. Seaman, of Washington County, was in charge of breaking up the demonstration. He previously had ordered Frank Note, an organizer for the National Miners' Union, to leave the county under threat of arrest. His orders flaunted, Sheriff Seaman gave the word for the release of tear gas. The strikers broke ranks, but formed again a short distance away, and resumed their demonstration, according to Nation Union officials here.

NEW MARCH ON MINE

At Sheriff Seaman's office it was said that the demonstration became orderly after the tear gas episode.

Today's march on Pittsburgh Coal Company Montour No. 10 mine was peaceful, with between 800 and 900 women and children in line.

The outlaw strike led by National Union organizers continued its spread with a march of 200 men and women from the Soudan mine at Bentleyville on the Gibson mine of the Hillman Coal Company, a few miles away. Gibson mine, employing about 400 men, was reported shut down 100 per cent and a meeting was planned for later in the day to decide on a march to the Bethlehem mines at Ellsworth and Marianna.

MEETINGS SLATED

Two more mass meetings, one at Slovan at 6 o'clock tonight and another at Herminie in Westmoreland county at 2 o'clock, were to be addressed by National Union leaders.

William Z. Foster, active here in the 1919 steel strike, was in the field in the interest of the National Miners Union today, having ad-

Davis Puts Teeth Into Speeches—Also Jobless

HAZLETON, Pa., June 4.—(INS.)—Senator James J. Davis today laid claim to having heard the ace of hard luck stories. It was told by a hitch-hiker picked up by the Senator. He recounted his woes:

"I have been hard hit by this slump. Up to last night, although stripped of all material wealth, I still enjoyed my health, a ravenous appetite and a fine set of store teeth, capable of taking on all shinbone steaks to the choicest cuts—if any.

"But last night some souvenir hunter took my teeth and this morning I had to fill myself up on oatmeal instead of the savory bacon and eggs a kind-hearted philanthropist offered me."

The Senator was touched and replied:

"Cheer up, brother. If I can put teeth in an economic speech I can put teeth in an economic victim. Come over to the dentist's and I'll stake you to a new set of grinders."

After the wayfarer was outfitted, Davis gave him $2 and he hurried to a restaurant where the new teeth received a thorough "breaking-in."

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 4. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, will leave for an airplane tour of the Orient within a month, the State Department announced today.

They will fly all the way from their estate in New Jersey and will go by way of Alaska, taking the short Pacific hop and will probably fly over Siberia and tour China and Japan by easy stages.

BABY STAYS BEHIND

The colonel revealed his plans to the State Department during a telephone conversation with Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., in which he asked the department to obtain permission from the Chinese and Japanese governments for him to fly in their countries.

The Lindberghs will not take their baby, Charles Augustus, Jr., Lindbergh told Castle.

He will use his regular airplane, "the one I have been using for some time," Castle said the colonel told him. Castle said pontoons were already attached to Lindbergh's plane.

TAKES NO CHANCES

Lindbergh told castle there would be no long water hops and that he was not going to do any "silly things, or take any risk with his wife along."

He said he would make plans for the tour as he went along. The definite date of his departure has not been decided.

The trip can not be considered as a "good will mission," Castle said, because Lindbergh told him:

"We are going solely because we want to see the Orient."

He expects the trip will require two or three weeks.

Drowned

AGNES HUTH

GIRL DROWNS IN POOL, ESCORT TOO LATE

A picnic in celebration of a holiday from a hospital at Cresson, where she was a patient, ended in tragedy for Miss Agnes Huth, 21, of 124 Fountain street, Crafton.

Miss Huth was drowned in the reservoir of the West Penn Water Company, at Bavington, near MacDonald, as her escort, John Werton, 24, of 3026 Allendale street, Sheraden, hurried in answer to her screams.

PLANNED MARRIAGE

Werton, also a patient at Cresson, said they were to be married when they were discharged from the hospital. He said:

"I had grown to love Agnes while we were together at Cresson and we had spoken of getting married when we were discharged. We talked about it yesterday. I can hardly believe that she is gone."

Describing the drowning, Werton said:

"We were inseparable companions during our stay at Cresson. We had been home on a week's holiday and yesterday decided to have a picnic lunch.

OPPOSED SWIM

"After eating, I proposed a walk around the dam, but Agnes said she was tired. Frequently during the afternoon she spoke of going in swimming in the reservoir, but I advised against it, as I thought it was dangerous. I left her while she packed the lunch dishes.

"I had gotten to the other side of the dam when I heard her scream. I ran back and saw she was in the water. I ran as fast as I could, but when I got back to where her clothes lay, she was not in sight."

Werton said he summoned help from the pumping station half a mile away. The body was recovered an hour later.

FIANCE ILL

Werton, whose parents live at Roscoe, Washington County, had been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Mary Gollick, in Sheraden. Werton was confined to his home today and was in the care of his sister, Miss Martha Werton.

Miss Huth was born and raised in Crafton, attended St. Phillip's Parochial School there and St. James' High School in the West End. She had been away for her health for several months and only returned to her home several days ago. Her parents are dead. Besides Mrs. Sullivan, she leaves two other sisters and three brothers.

PRESBYTERIANS END SESSIONS

A spirited three-cornered fight for the one hundred and forty-fourth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., terminating in the selection of Denver, brought the 1931 Presbyterian conclave in Syria Mosque to a close late yesterday. Seattle and Los Angeles opposed Denver.

The final meeting was marked by the announced determination to go ahead with negotiations for organic union; approval of a national Protestant newspaper in New York; the centennial of the Western Missionary Society, founded in Pittsburgh 100 years ago and the election of a number of church boards.

Two Pittsburghers were named in the elections. Frederic B. Shipp was elected to membership on the General Council and Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Jr., to membership on the Board of Foreign Missions.

PARLEY BRINGS PINCHOT BOOM INTO OPEN

Governors' Conference Also Places Roosevelt, Ritchie Candidacies to Fore

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 4.—The annual conference of state governors, which broke up today, served to put the presidential candidacies of three men in bold relief against the 1932 political picture.

For the Democratic nomination next year, both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, made politically important contacts with their fellow governors, who are likely to be influential figures in their respective state delegations, and both governors as well furnished further insight into their developing campaigns.

On the Republican side, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, left little doubt that he is to be considered a rival for the nomination which most politicians, irrespective of party, believe President Hoover cannot be denied. Nevertheless and with his usual disdain of odds, the Pennsylvanian threw his hat into the ring on the power issue, and there it is likely to remain until further developments.

A poll of the Republican governors, taken by the International News Service correspondent, developed that all thought President Hoover would have little difficulty about renomination "if he wants it."

A similar poll of the Democratic governors revealed a variety of opinion, although the consensus was that Gov. Roosevelt is at this time leading the race.

The tonnage rate varying from 28 to 44 cents a ton now, they ask it be increased to 55 and 77 cents.

The strikers were permitted 10 pickets at the mine entrance along Piney Fork road with the line of march moving back and forward along the road in front of the colliery. The column of marchers wes led by a Negro, two white women and a white miner carrying an American flag.

A mass meeting followed the demonstration at which organizers for the National Miners' Union went among the strikers seeking applications for membership.

"If nominated, he'd be elected."

Coolidge Urges Fair Earnings on Savings

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 4.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The subscription several times over of the government loan of $800,000,000 indicates a very large amount of idle capital in the country. That is a good foundation but not enough. Money is beneficial mostly in proportion to its profitable use. Evidently capital is very timid. Faith and courage are also needed.

Mr. Coolidge

Two years ago the rate of interest on short time treasury notes was 5⅛. Now for a long term bond the rate is 3⅛. Many who were inclined to scoff at 9 per cent now bid against each other for 3 per cent and safety. If they err in judgment it is on the side of caution. While that frame of mind exists there is little danger of inflation, but only a negative sign of reviving trade.

No doubt the government should borrow as cheaply as possible. But if fair wages and prices are to be maintained a fair price for money should be paid. The savings of the people in banks and insurance companies cannot make an adequate return with interest rates too low. Fair earnings for savings are an important factor in the purchasing power of the people.

Shoots Girl in Crowded Street, Then Ends Life

WHEELING, W. Va., June 4.—(AP.)—Miss Mary Lohr, 22, was shot and wounded seriously while on her way to work in a downtown crowd here today and her assailant killed himself at the home of his employer a short time later.

Miss Lohr was shot twice by George Buchwalter, about 40. Buchwalter fled in his automobile to the home of E. W. Stifel, president of the Stifel Calico Company, by whom he was employed as chauffeur, and there shot himself in the head.

Miss Lohr probably will recover from her wounds, physicians said. She was employed in a clothing store. The girl had Buchwalter arrested recently for annoying her, and early this week had him placed under a $1,000 peace bond. The man had been married, but was divorced.

NAUTILUS IN FINAL TESTS BEFORE ATLANTIC CROSSING

READY TO START OVER SEA FOR POLAR TRIP

Wilkins and Crew Pleased At Getaway from Base; Good Omen in Sunshine

The submarine Nautilus yesterday put out to sea from New London, Conn., on the first leg of her long voyage to the North Pole. Due in Provincetown, Mass., today, the Nautilus will make several test runs, and will then start on the voyage across the Atlantic, to London. Sir Hubert Wilkins, expedition leader, said he expects to leave Provincetown late tonight or early Friday, if tests are successful.

By SIR HUBERT WILKINS

ABOARD THE TRANS-ARCTIC SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, June 4.—(Via Station WRH of American Radio News.)—The Nautilus, making between 13 and 14 miles an hour over ground, has reached the submarine trial course near Provincetown.

We will make two runs on the surface and two or three submerged runs, testing the thrust of the propeller before heading out across the Atlantic.

CROSS OCEAN NEXT

By tonight or Friday, if trials prove satisfactory, the first long leg of the journey begins.

We hope our start at noon yesterday from the submarine base at New London, Conn., graced by the presence of Capt. Brown, base commander, who dispatched us with the best wishes of the Navy, and accompanied by the destroyer Hunt, through courtesy of the Coast Guard service, was the real start of the journey.

The last-minute generous aid from the Woods Hole institution and Anthony Fokker (airplane designer) made it possible for me to fulfill my desire to accompany the ship from the outset, without the dreaded specter of angry creditors menacing from ashore.

Everyone aboard is greatly pleased at the getaway. No sooner had Danenhower given orders to start the engines than the sun broke through the clouds, a splendid omen, all agree.

GOOD-BYE AND GOOD LUCK

Nautilus Leaving New London, Conn.

As two of their buddies on the shore wave farewell, the crew of Sir Hubert Wilkins' polar submarine take their craft out of New London, Conn., for Provincetown, where final tests are to be made before the voyage to Spitzbergen, thence to meet the Graf Zeppelin at the North Pole.

VATICAN BREAK WITH ITALY WIDENS

Retaliation for Arrest of Catholic Youth Leaders Appears Certain in Rome

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, June 4.—Reprisal by the Vatican in the form of a sharp diplomatic break with the Italian government was feared here today as the result of the Quirinal's attitude in the Catholic-Fascist controversy.

Although the breach broadened to what amounted to an actual break with the arrest of Signor Borsanego, honorary president of the Catholic Youth Society, and others, no announcement of the discontinuance of peace overtures was made. His holiness, however, was believed to be considering such action today.

Having suffered during the past two weeks by attacks on its clergy and institutions through personal violence, the church suffered two additional damaging blows from the government yesterday.

Despite persistent denials by the Vatican that the recently dissolved Azione Cattolica, a lay organization, was not in any way involved in politics, the directorate of the Fascist party, meeting in special session under the chairmanship of Premier Mussolini, refused to reconsider the decree of dissolution.

TURTLE CREEK MAN SHOT IN RACKET FEUD

Victim Staggers to Rooming House With Two Wounds; Abandoned Car Trailed

Believed a victim of racketeer warfare, Joseph Civino, 45, is in Braddock General Hosiptal, shot in the back of the neck and left arm.

Fully clothed, he staggered to his rooming house, 314 Clugston avenue, Turtle Creek, at 5 o'clock this morning. An examination of his clothing showed the bullets did not penetrate his coat. Powder marks were on his shirt.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

John Carmelleri, 35, giving his address as 4512 Minerva street, Bloomfield, was arrested at 316 Clugston street when the police said they learned he rented a room there last night. Carmelleri at first denied knowing Civino, but later at the hospital termed Civino "my friend," according to the detectives.

Camelleri, they said, denied he was with Civino last night.

The detectives say they are working on two theories—one that the two men were engaged in a "racket," and perhaps got into some one else's territory, or that the wounded man may have "double-crossed" Carmelleri and the latter followed him from Bloomfield.

Where the shooting took place is still shrouded in mystery.

Marks of an auto driven away from the rear of the boarding house and an abandoned coach, with the rear seat removed, found in front of 316 Clugston avenue this morning, lead police to believe that Civino was the victim of a racketeer feud.

RENTS ROOM

Donato Pantalone, proprietor of the boarding house, said he met Civino on Monday and gave him a room when the man said he had come from Cleveland and was searching for work. Civino left the house during the night, Pantalone said, and returned, knocking on the door, saying he had been shot. Asked where, he pointed to an alley in the rear.

Police Chief William Whalen and County Detectives Joseph Bodner and Edward Frank, examining the clothes, found no marks on the coat, but powder burns on the shirt. Pantalone said Civino was fully clothed when he returned.

CROWLEY'S PAL GETS DEATH

NEW YORK, June 4.—(INS.)—Rudy Duringer, pal of the condemned Francis (Two-Gun) Crowley, was found guilty today of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Virginia Brannen, ten-cents-a-dance girl.

A jury in Bronx Supreme Court returned the verdict this morning after seven hours of deliberation. The verdict means death in the electric chair.

Miss Brannen, who came to New York from Bangor, Me., "seeking a thrill," was shot and killed on an automobile ride that climaxed a night of drinking on April 27.

Crowley, sought first as the girl's killer, shot and killed a policeman who stopped Crowley's car to question him.

Col. Clarence Chamberlain, himself an Atlantic flier, and Miss Nichols' adviser on her Atlantic flight, went over the plane again today and it was at his suggestion that she flew to Hartford.

Colored Photos Revealed Among Paintings of Exhibitor Kane

TELLS START OF CAREER

"It all started when I was laid off by a car factory, in Butler. I started to work for a firm in Chicago—I forget the name. I went around to houses in mine towns and got photos from the people. Then I sent them to Chicago to be enlarged. When they were returned, I covered them with paint or pastel or crayon. The people didn't care, so long as it looked like what they wanted.

"When I was doing anything in a hurry, I'd enlarge it myself and paint over it. I still do that once in a while.

"All my paintings in the Internationals have been free hand work on canvas. All my canvases are free hand. About four or five paintings in the Junior League are over photographs, though.

"Christ Walter asked me about that 'Dad's Pay Day' in the Associated Artists. My boys were dead and gone, so I arranged pictures of the three of them on one print and painted over it."

CHARGES ETHICS VIOLATED

Petrovits said:

"Painting over photographs is absolutely unethical. It isn't fair that this man should be accepted for the Carnegie International while all the rest of the Pittsburgh artists are rejected. That isn't art."

Christ Walter, president of the Associated Artists, said today:

"There was some doubt at our last exhibition whether or not one of the pictures was painted over an enlarged photograph. But, upon questioning Mr. Kane, he assured us that the picture was original and not a copy."

KANE U[illegible]URBED

John[illegible] business manager of the department of fine arts, Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, refused to be interviewed because of lack of knowledge of the circumstances. Kane, today, was conscious of no wrong. He said that all his better pictures are original free-hand paintings.

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Duncan Phillips, of Washington, famous collector of modern paintings, and John Walker III, a Pittsburgher, now in Florence and formerly located at Fogg Museum of Art at Harvard, were among the prominent purchasers of Kane's handicraft. Their paintings have been exhibited at the Corcoran Gallery of Art at Washinfton and the Modern Museum of Art in New York. Other purchasers were Andrew Dasburg, John Dewey and Leon Kroll, members of the committee of selection for the international exhibition. Most of the work has gone at prices between $10 and $400.

The incident recalled to Pittsburgh artists the barring of paintings of Reginald Grenville Eves from the exhibition of the Royal Academy of London, causing international discussion. Eves, it was alleged, pasted tissue paper enlargements on canvas and colored them with oil paintings.

SKETCH REFLECTIONS

It was pointed out in connection with the Eves incident, that although no reputable artist will color photographs as a labor saving device, many throw the reflection of a photograph on a blank canvas and block in the rough outline with charcoal.

Kane has exhibited in New York at the Modern Museum of Art, the Corcoran Galleries, in Washington, in every International since 1927, and in Associated Artists exhibitions. His last International picture, hailed as his greatest, "Across the Strip," was purchased for the Phillips Memorial Collection in Washington, D. C., regarded as high honor by American artists.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 4.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones, champion of golf champions, turned his back on the village of make-believe today, putting behind him forever the business of motion picture making. He said:

Jones is weary from three months of working on a series of educational golf pictures and intends to go directly to Atlanta.

Business Recovery in U. S. Under Way, Hearst Says

NEW YORK, June 4.—(Universal.)—Asserting that a definite trend toward business recovery has set in, William Randolph Hearst sailed last night on the Europa for a vacation in England and Germany. He will return in September.

The most hopeful sign of improved conditions, Mr. Hearst said, is in recent government reports showing less unemployment. The stock market, he declared, is no criterion of fundamental economic conditions.

He added:

"I feel reasonably confident that general business and industry will be improved by fall. But I believe the government should assist. President Hoover has said what can be done and indicated how it can be done. Now is the time to do it."

Mr. Hearst said he had received "many enthusiastic responses" to his radio address of Tuesday night, in which he urged the government to borrow $5,000,000,000 for immediate expenditure on a great program of public works.

LEAGUE QUELLS DIRECT ATTACK ON DOPE

By WINIFRED BLACK

GENEVA, June 4.—The League of Nations stepped into the international narcotic conference yesterday like a traffic cop warning pedestrians to wait for the signal.

The conference was droning along in its usual perfunctory way. Without an instant's warning, Delegate Bogomoloff, of Russia, rose and dared to come down to cases.

OUTLINES STEPS

Bogomoloff said that in his opinion the first step toward real control of the dope evil is to limit production of the plants from which dope is made.

The second step, he said, is to limit manufacture, and the third is to limit distribution.

He asked the conference for discussion of a way to limit production of plants from which drugs are made.

Discuss any such primitive and direct affair? The scope of the conference was quite clearly outlined by the League. Delegate after delegate bounded to his feet and called the Russian sternly to account.

The president of the conference, Senator Louis de Brouckere, of Belgium, said he thought Bogomoloff was within his rights, and the matter was put to a vote.

U. S. VOTES NEGATIVELY

Shall we discuss limitation of production? The roll was called. Only two delegations voted "Yes."

It was strange to see the American delegation vote "No" on a question that is the very heart and soul of the American position taken in 1929 at the League assembly.

I could not help wondering what the League would do to the naughty boys who dared to talk openly about the root of the whole hideous dope business.

MUTUAL BANK INTEREST 4½

Trustees of the Dollar Savings Bank, a mutual organization, have declared a regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent and an extra dividend of one-half per cent, making the annual interest rate 4½ per cent for the year ended May 31, 1931. In explaining the continued payment of this rate when other banks have announced reductions of rates to 3 per cent on new accounts, Samuel Bailey, Jr., president, said that the bank has no stockholders. It is the only mutual savings bank in Pittsburgh and all the earnings accrue to the 40,000 depositors.

Cross Boundary Wedding Results In Many Woes

WINDSOR, Ont., June 4.—The married life of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Grudge is filled with international complications, all because he stood on one side of the Canadian-American boundary and she on the other during the wedding.

Mrs. Grudge, foreign born, was refused permission to enter the United States. Mr. Grudge came to Windsor to see her. He started to return, but was refused permission because he had failed to establish proof of a year's residence in the United States.

Two children of Mrs. Grudge, formerly Mrs. Emily Hunt, are at Rochester, N. Y., American born but denied entry to Canada.

GIRL, TWO MEN HURT BY AUTOS

Miss Nora Elizabeth Reddington, 28, of 6424 Marchant street, was injured seriously this morning when she was struck by an automobile at Beechwood boulevard and Fifth avenue. She is in Pittsburgh Hospital suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries. Police arrested Walter Siegel, 28, of 5838 Hobart street, as driver of the machine.

R. J. Colin, 35, of 647 Fifth avenue, New Kensington, suffered lacerations of the head and was treated at Allegheny General Hospital early today after his automobile collided with a West View street car at East Montgomery avenue and Sandusky street, police said.

Anthony Mastaro, 51, of 1236 Grotto street, walked to Pittsburgh Hospital after having his skull fractured when struck by an automobile at Frankstown and Lincoln avenues, last night. Mastaro was in a serious condition, hospital authorities said.

Penn avenue police are seeking a hit-run motorist who early today struck and wrecked a wagon of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company at Thirty-third street and Liberty avenue. The collision occurred while the wagon was stopped at the curb.

MUNHALL BLAST SUIT ON TRIAL

The second of more than a score of suits growing out of the Munhall explosion December 5, 1929, resulting in six deaths, and injuries to 30 persons, is on trial in Common Pleas Court before Judge William H. McNaugher. George E. Thirkell, 45, of Greenfield, is asking damages for the death of his wife and injuries to himself, from the Equitable Gas Company and the Munhall estate.

Seeking $50,000 damages for injuries when she tripped and fell on a sidewalk March 7, on Stewart street, Mrs. Agnes Apple, of McKeesport, filed suit against the City of McKeesport in Common Pleas Court.

Frank Kovak, McKeesport, asked $25,000 damages from the Pittsburgh Railways Company for injuries in a collision in Duquesne between a street car and truck. Kovak was thrown from the truck, suffering several broken ribs, the suit averred.

Sharpsburg Schools On Outing Today

Public schools and the St. Joseph's Parochial School of Sharpsburg were to go to Kennywood Park today to hold their annual outings. Sports, amusements and refreshments were on the program, under a committee including Mrs. M. E. Slagel, president, and F. J. Wittman, secretary of the Sharpsburg School Board, and the Rev. D. J. Cox, of St. Joseph's. Schools of Carrick, Knoxville and Brentwood will picnic at Kennywood tomorrow.

Alter Zone to Permit $1,500,000 Building

Council has approved an ordinance amending the zoning law to permit the erection of a $1,500,000 apartment house at Bigelow boulevard and Dithridge street.

Approval was given also to changing property bounded by Brownsville road, Stewart avenue, Vida way, Claus avenue, Windfall way and Meritt street from residence to commercial zone.

Pantages Case Evidence Begins

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 4.—(INS.)—Taking of evidence began today in the trial of Alexander Pantages, theatrical man, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Lydia Nitto, 17. After more than a week of questioning a jury of three women and nine men was chosen to hear the details of the "Hollywood love mart" case.

Glee Over Chicken Theft Makes Alonzo Fugitive

Alonzo Banks, Negro, sat in Center Avenue Police Court today, smiling widely.

He was watching the hearing of two other Negroes, Leroy Johnson, 48, of 1906 Enoch street, and John Taylor, 32, of 1213 Hazel street, in the theft of 65 chickens from two Hill district stores.

Johnson denied the thefts.

Alonzo burst into a loud and raucous laugh.

That laugh was disastrous.

Johnson pointed and said:

Alonzo left the courtroom without ceremony but with six policemen at his heels. He outdistanced them.

Back in the courtroom, Johnson said:

"We were on a four-day party, judge, and we wanted some chicken. Alonzo got enough for the whole four days."

CHAPTER XV.

I doubt very much if Clara Bow would have ever filed a complaint against her secretary-hairdresser if she had not threatened her. An indictment with 35 counts of grand theft was returned against Daisy De Voe by the Los Angeles County grand jury.

A jury, after 48 minutes' deliberation, found Miss De Voe guilty of taking $825 to buy herself a fur coat. Judge Doran, who tried the case, suggested leniency and Daisy, who had sat through the trial sneering at Clara, was led away to jail.

"Daisy's face was so terrible," Clara said, "she looked as if she could have killed me. I could even see her look of hatred after I went to bed at night."

But instead of rejoicing over the verdict, Clara felt sorry for Miss De Voe and even went so far as to write to the district attorney for clemency.

"I didn't want her to go to jail," Clara said. "I never wanted to see her again myself, but the thought that Daisy, who had grown to love luxury and ease and who had been so close to me, was to spend a year in jail made me very unhappy."

Miss De Voe has never been known to have any similarly kind feelings of sympathy for Clara. She sneered when she was told of her former employer's expressions of sympathy and seemed to be without a single regret over the injustice she had done Clara.

Rather Be Clara

Even with all the unfortunate publicity printed against Clara Bow, I would far rather be in her place than face life with the record that is registered against Daisy De Voe.

Clara, at least, has the respect of those who know her. Daisy De Voe's acquaintances shun her—not because she has been sentenced to a jail term but because she betrayed a trust. There should never be a cause sufficiently strong to make any employe divulge his employer's personal affairs, even after that employe is discharged.

Daisy De Voe figured that by threatening Miss Bow she would willingly pay the $125,000. But Clara has courage. She refused to pay her ex-secretary a huge sum even to keep certain telegrams and letters out of the paper.

"I will willingly give anyone in need of money," Clara said, "but to pay someone who wants to lie and cheat—well, it just isn't in my nature to do such a thing."

Otheman Stevens, well-known writer, has made a study of blackmailers and their methods. He commented on Clara Bow's pluck at the time she refused to pay Daisy De Voe. The trial, he said, was a sad spectacle. Miss De Voe was on trial for having stolen funds from her employer, but the evidence was made to look as if Miss Bow was the one charged with the crime. So flagrant did this attitude become that Judge William C. Doran had to stop what he termed a carnival of mud slinging.

"Miss Bow," said Mr. Stevens, "had to suffer all this mud splatter even after Miss De Voe had been convicted. Miss Bow wrote a letter to District Attorney Buron Fitts asking that mercy be shown Miss De Voe, adding: 'The fact is, I would never have called the matter to your attention if Daisy had not attempted to blackmail me and I knew no other way to protect myself.'"

"The incident, it is certain," says Mr. Stevens, "had imbued the community with a detestation of blackmailers. This sentiment, naturally, will lead to added resistance in the face of such attacks and probably more convictions."

Hollywood has been infested with some species or other of unscrupulous blackmailers ever since it became the home of motion pictures. The magic tales of motion picture wealth has acted as a veritable magnet to draw all types of racketeers. They have preyed on the motion picture people, threatening all sorts of undesirable publicity. Rather than run the risk of ruining a reputation that means a livelihood, the stars have in the past frequently become the victims of these blackmailers.

Clara Bow knew if these untrue stories Frederick Girnau published were circulated it would mean that certain of the reading public would refuse to see her pictures.

Courage of Lion

But Clara has the courage of a lion when necessary. Knowing the coast reporter's stories were a mass of vile lies, she refused to pay tribute.

Clara, telling me the story, said:

"I knew I had done nothing that could ostracize me. I knew I was innocent. When Mr. Mr. Girnau visited Paramount and insisted that I be taken off the screen, he was told that I had never in my life committed any crime that would justify such a procedure. Mr. Girnau, I suppose, thought I would pay him a huge amount to keep the articles he printed out of circulation.

"I never in my life felt so brave. 'Let him publish them,' I told my father. 'If I yield to him, he will tell lies about others in my profession.'

"I never really thought he would dare print lies," Clara said. "When I read those cruel vicious articles I wanted to lie down and die. Rex Bell and I were driving home from the studio. A newsboy ran up to my car and shouted: 'Clara Bow exposed.'

"'Rex—have I gone crazy,' I asked him. 'Tell me is it true that that boy is really calling my name?'

"'Don't read that paper, Clara,' he begged. But I already had the paper in my hand. I wanted to die. Never had I read such vile accusations.

"That is when I thought if I could die and go to my mother I would be happy. I was so weary of the notoriety I had experienced and now all these horrible stories, all of them lies."

Clara Bow was a martyr to a miserable group of leeches. I am not ashamed to say I cried in sympathy with her when she put her head on my shoulder and told me of the nights of anguish and of the shame she felt at being pictured as a creature worse than any low womain.

In tomorrow's installment Miss Parsons, continuing the REAL life story of Clara Bow will tell how motion picture stars have been victimized and the debt they owe to the courage of the flaming-haired "It" girl who refused to pay.

the Potomac River to drift down the river to the sea."

As you read, the ashes are drifting, or settling on the bottom on the Potomac mud.

Where is the "featherless biped," formerly called "Conrad Siem"?

That's the important question. Has he also gone on floating down the river of time out into the sea of eternity? Or will he come back to be a "pioneer and philosopher" once more?

THAT IS the only question that is really important to all of us, and is the one question we cannot answer.

LAST YEAR, Americans ate 1,335,617,903 pounds of candy. Something over 14 per cent of the total amount is supposed to have been eaten by children, which is not enough. Pure candy, of the proper kind, is not merely a good, but an absolutely necessary, part of diet in childhood.

Candy is important also for the old. Sugar is the best food for the muscles. And the old, with weakened hearts, should feed the heart muscles directly, by eating candy or sugar.

WALL STREET had a little "rally" yesterday. And while copper sold at 8 cents, and wheat and cotton were weak, it means that our slump is certainly close to the bottom. When you can buy the most important products, oil, coal, copper, wheat, for less than it costs to produce them, you know that business must soon start up again.

When an elevator reaches the ground floor, it starts up. So with business.

Drys Seize Alcohol, Whisky in Plant

A raid on an alleged whisky cutting plant at 32 Wooster street, yielded prohibition agents 132 pints of whisky and 45 gallons of alcohol yesterday, they reported. Nobody was in the place when the agents entered.

A 25-gallon still was seized in a Clairton dwelling and 60 gallons of wine in a home in Forward Township. The occupants of the houses were released on their own recognizance.

For Your Health's Sake

Eat DONAHOE'S U. S. Government Inspected Beef

WHY?

Because—

The Federal Meat Inspection Service of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, protects the health of the public from diseased animals of any and every description, the most important of which is tubercular cattle.

U. S. Government Inspection—What It Means

As a routine activity, all animals which are about to be slaughtered under Federal meat inspection are subjected to a thorough and searching veterinary examination for evidence of disease or other condition which would render the meat unfit for food. This is called an ante-mortem inspection. Later on, at the time of slaughter, or post-mortem inspection, each carcass with its viscera*, is systematically examined by scientifically trained inspectors. Carcasses and parts that are diseased, unsound, or otherwise unfit are conspicuously marked "U.S. Inspected and Condemned" and are destroyed for food purposes under official supervision. The sound carcasses and parts, after being appropriately marked "U.S. Inspected and Passed," continue on to other departments of the establishment for chilling and processing.

Each step in these processing operations, including packing and labeling of the finished product for shipment from the establishment, is closely scrutinized, and the meats are carefully inspected at the various stages by specially trained employees.

These employees are not mere political appointees—they are scientifically-trained, graduate veterinarians; every one of whom has taken a college course in Animal Husbandry and passed a strict Federal examination.

In the administration of the meat-inspection acts, especially as they apply to post-mortem inspections, much effort has been necessary to coordinate the fundamental requirements of thorough inspection and sanitation with the speed of operation which the packer considers economically essential.

Inventive genius, both within and without the service, has brought marked improvement in facilities for inspection and operations which are outstanding among the meat-inspection systems of the world.

In the modern meat-packing establishments the animals are hoisted to an overhead conveyer by means of which they pass in a suspended position over a definite route with unvarying regularity through the various stages of the dressing operation and inspection. The viscera and parts are removed and placed for inspection on moving-top equipment which is synchronized in speed to that of the mechanical conveyer of the carcasses during the process of dressing. This is done in order to maintain accurate relationship and identification of the carcass and its viscera and detached parts until the post-mortem inspection is completed.

The moving-top viscera-inspection table is constructed of corrosion-resisting metal, is automatically cleansed with pure water, and is also continuously subjected to sprays of scalding water. Good sanitation is thus assured as well as efficiency of inspection.

In both the slaughtering and processing departments where meats must be washed the practice of spray washing under pressure up to 300 pounds is a recent and meritorious development in inspected establishments.

The U.S. Government Meat Inspection service is about the most stringent, inflexible bureau of the Government; its requirements and inspection are most rigid and strict; the ethics of the Government meat inspectors are very high; they realize they are protecting the public from diseased animal meat and they do their work most seriously, thoroughly and efficiently; no animal, no matter how slightly diseased, ever gets past their keen inspection and there is no "fixing" in a Government inspected packing plant. Government inspectors are changed from time to time without notice.

A fair-sized Government inspected packing plant will be under the supervision of ten or more Government inspectors—and they have full sway, their word is the final law as to what meat shall be sold to the public and what meat shall be condemned and destroyed.

Eczema in Rash Formed Blisters. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out in a small spot on my neck and gradually spread to my arms, limbs and other parts of my body. It was in a rash and later formed blisters. The itching and burning were so severe that I scratched and water came from the eruptions. Then they would dry up and scale over. My clothing aggravated the breaking out and I lost many a night's sleep.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret Mentzer, Box 263, Baden, Pa., June 4, 1930.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's, and all Mayflower Drug Stores, or your own druggist. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Those Wide Open Spaces?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Went out to look at some nice suburban houses in the city located stragetically between two hot dog stands and right in the shadow of the world's tallest gasoline pump.

In the old days you could always tell where the city stopped and the plowing began. Now, they've improved everything so much it is impossible to get far enough into the country to borrow money from Congress.

What we wanted was a small place to live in and a large place to store a car.

Something about a six-car garage with a rubberized fence, a nice tree to sit in and a hollow chimney for the smoke.

No two-family houses for us. That's bigamy.

Do you know we rode all day and couldn't find the country? Everything is suburbs now and sub-divisions.

There may be reservations for the forests, preserves for the deer and sanctuaries for the birds, but there's nothing but speed traps for us.

You can drive two days into Long Island and not get away from New York City traffic cops. Going towards New Jersey is worse.

They make you drive for 36 hours through tunnels and things and when you come out you are supposed to know what you are doing!

The works are built up solid from New York to Philadelphia, from Yonkers to Boston, from Brooklyn to the sea. It's all city. And if that's civilization we hope the next time you fly a kite the string breaks.

We envy the Westerner who can reach the wide open spaces without eating up six picnic lunches on the way. There is no more country left in the East. A crow can hop from Canada to Florida without once letting go of an outdoor aerial.

Some day we hope to live in Arizona, California or some ozone-infested state where you can take a deep breath without getting coat buttons caught in your nose.

If you look out of your Nevada window around 1937 and see a strange figure on a pogo stick leaping from mountain to crag you will know it is the Bug on his way to go native. We're sick of million-dollar buildings and replacing divots. So we're off to Alaska, which the U. S. bought for 2 cents an acre, and which has never suffered from a real estate boom.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, June 1.

AS A CAREFUL driver and an excellent chauffeur, Jack has been in the employ of a very wealthy New York family for three years. The family hadn't the slightest notion that Jack had a past consisting of two jail terms for walking off with things that didn't belong to him. They had no reason to entertain such a notion. For, aside from splitting with the garage on an extra tire every now and then, he was going extremely straight.

Jack was sitting outside his garage one afternoon when Harry strolled up to him. Harry was a good-looking crook whom Jack had known in the old days and the latter recognized him immediately. He jumped up, pumped his hand warmly and asked him this and that. Harry finally got down to business.

"Jack," he said, "the boys all told me that you went straight and I looked you up for that reason. I've been thinking things over and I've come to the conclusion that you have the right idea. The only way to be happy is to go straight.

"I'm tired of cops and jails. I want to do what you've done. Can you help me get a decent job as a chauffeur?"

Jack was a trifle dubious but the other man finally convinced him.

"All right," cried Jack suddenly. "I'll help you. I might be able to get you a job with my family. They have four cars and the extra man who was helping me left last week. I'll see what I can do."

The result was that, two days later, the good-looking crook was engaged by the multi-millionaires to be their second chauffeur. He was extremely grateful. And he told Jack so.

"I'll never forget you for this, Jack," he asserted. "I feel millions of miles away from my last jail. I'm straight now—and I'm keeping straight. I owe it all to you, pal."

Jack shrugged his shoulders.

"Forget it," he advised. "You don't owe me anything. It's nothing more than I would do for any fellow that I've known for a long, long time. I'm only going to ask you one favor. Don't change your mind. Now that you're on the straight and narrow—stick to it."

The other man nodded vigorously.

"Don't you worry, Jack,' he cried. "I know when I'm well off."

Some six months passed and Jack noticed a change in Harry. The latter gentleman wasn't as friendly as he had been. It seemed as though he was growing a trifle high-hat. Jack couldn't figure it out. True, Harry was driving for the top layer of society.

One afternoon, as he sat in the garage, he learned the reason. The news came to him over the telephone. Harry had eloped to Greenwich with the youngest daughter in the family and had made her his wife! The family had gone into hysterics about the thing, but they were accepting the young man as their son-in-law for the sake of suppressing what might have become a great newspaper scandal.

That very night Jack was summoned to the Fifth avenue home with the best Rolls. A few minutes later out came a party of people that included Harry and his bride. There was no room for him in the rear of the car, so he graciously consented to sit next to his old pal, Jack.

"Congratulations, you mug," murmured Jack as he drove off. "What a lucky guy you are!"

Harry stiffened.

"What's that, my man?" he inquired.

Jack gulped.

"I said," he muttered, "that you're a lucky guy."

Harry tapped his arm.

"I want you to remember," he stated, "that you are talking to a member of the family. You will watch your manners in the future or I will see that you are discharged."

The irony of the thing that happened after that speech is little less than beautiful. Jack stopped the machine and took a hefty punch at Harry. He connected in splendid fashion, was taken to the police station and was finally given eight months in jail for simple assault.

And Harry, whom he placed on the straight road, is living in regal style as the none-too-devoted husband of a millionaire bride! . . .

Real Estate

A home at 2422 Wilson avenue, North Side, has been purchased by Thelma M. Callahan from Clement J. Miller for a private consideration, according to W. B. Dawson & Co., North Side realtors. The purchaser is residing in the property.

Pittsburgh made one of the best showings in the state in its building report for April, according to a survey from the Department of Labor and Industry.

ISSUE 504 PERMITS

The city issued 504 permits for work valued at $2,694,708 compared with 560 permits for $1,340,201 in April, 1930. Gains over last year were registered by 11 other municipalities but were outweighed by losses in 28 cities, according to the survey.

The net loss over 40 cities for April as compared with the same period of last year was $2,783,425 or 17.9 per cent. The total construction for the month was $12,710,585, an increase of 249.4 per cent over the previous month.

Other cities showing gains included Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Butler, Erie, Monongahela, Jeannette, Washington, Berwick, Carlisle and Pottsville. The largest decline was reported in Philadelphia.

Speaking before the delegates to the twenty-fourth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Baltimore last week, Harry S. Kissell, president of the association, told realtors that the country would be in financial shambles today if real estate had taken the same precipitous drop which other commodities took during the last depression.

Kissell explained that the strength of real estate has been the stabilizing factor in the past two years.

HELEN MORGAN SINGS 'BILL' :-: Gene Austin's New Stunt :-: TRAPPING THE NIGHTINGALE

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Helen Morgan of the long eyelashes, graceful hands and luring eyes, revives "Bill" from "Show Boat" for the KDKA audience at 9:30 tonight. Helen's dynamic expression in this plaintive ballad appeals to eye and ear. This modest girl who established a reputation as an emotional actress as "Julie" in "Show Boat," is to be given her greatest role as a star in the 1931 edition of the "Follies" which is to have its premiere in a downtown playhouse on June 15. Being familiar as you are with the way La Morgan sang "Bill" while seated on the corner of a piano in the play "Show Boat," you may be interested to know that the actress' career began in a Danville, Ill., night club that was so small that the entertainers had to sit on the piano to make room for the dancers! We might say this was the keynote of her success. Oh, well!

Helen Morgan

Rudy Vallee's chief diversion after every Thursday night broadcast (WCAE, 8) is playing "Kelly pool" with his young brother, "Bill," and his secretary, Ken Dolan.

Gene Austin has the wah-wah blues. Beginning this Saturday at 7 o'clock via WEAF, he is to give babies away on the radio. Yes sir, the cutest cherubs that abide in New York sheltering institutions are to be offered to people who will promise to give them good homes. Bravo, Gene!

Who got his signals mixed last night and blew an automobile horn in the studio when the production called for the peep of a steamboat whistle? Ho, ho! Why not a Paul Revere lantern system—one if by land (honk, honk!) and two if by sea (peep, peep!).

Question a Day:

You said sometime ago that the Columbia Broadcasting System picked up the song of the nightingale from England. As this famous songbird is known everywhere for its temperament, even refusing to come within more than 100 feet of people, will you please tell how the radio people maneuvered this stunt?—Ethel K., Oakland.

Answer—True, it's hard to get this temperamental prima donna on the dotted line but the broadcasting boys accomplished it by having a woman play dulcet music to encourage the arboreal singer as he perched in the wooded garden of a country home near Surrey, 40 miles from London. The bird became jealous of what he imagined to be a rival suitor for the claw of his little brown mate, and entered the lists with much fervor. Then the microphone attached to the limb of a tree was switched in.

It's a small world! Ambling about WHK studios in Cleveland recently we met Fred Meckelnburg, of Bellevue, who is their assistant commercial manager. From Studio "A" one may get a fine glimpse of the new Cleveland Stadium on the lakefront where Stribling and Schmeling are to mix it July 3.

Two Boys will Go Adventuring this Summer

HOW TWO FAR-SEEING PARENTS WILL HELP THEIR SONS TO KNOW MORE ABOUT THE PRACTICAL THINGS OF LIFE

On a bright clear morning this month, two boys will step eagerly into a Ford roadster and start on a motor trip that will last the whole summer through.

Theirs will be a trip never to be forgotten . . . long to be remembered.

Regular school will have closed for them, but their practical education will be but beginning. They will learn many things not found in books. Two far-seeing parents have attended to that.

Pressed by the boys to give them an automobile as reward for passing with high grades, the parents consented on one condition . . . that the trip must serve a useful purpose. So this plan was decided on.

Each day the boys will arise at seven o'clock and follow a carefully arranged route and schedule. This calls for their visiting principal points of interest in this country and spending time in leading industrial plants. They will get back to the sources of raw materials—see how things are mined and grown—and follow them through the various stages of manufacture. They will see how they are used by millions of people.

Bustling factories will teach of the work of men and machines. The village farms and wide, rolling prairies will reveal the magic of nature and the treasures that lie beneath the soil. Everywhere—through first-hand contact—they will learn more about the great country in which they live.

Thrown a great deal on their own resources—yet not too much—they will develop a poise and self-reliance they could get in no other way. The theory of books will become the actuality of fact.

Each night they will sit down and write a letter telling what they have seen and what they have done in that particular day. And two proud parents at home will read and envy and prepare perhaps to set forth on a similar adventure.

It seems altogether natural and logical that the Ford was selected for an extended trip of this kind. Always it has been associated with dependable, economical, useful transportation. For more than a quarter of a century it has been both pioneer and leader.

Years ago it was the first automobile ever seen in many of the sections the boys will visit. Today it is a part of the lives and activities of millions of men and women. So universal is its service that people everywhere look upon it not only as an automobile but a national institution. It is the symbol and the expression of high value at low price, unique manufacturing methods, and higher wages for American workmen.

Many thousands of miles of use will confirm your first impression of quality and give you a feeling of pride and satisfaction in the performance of the Ford. You will come back from the long trip convinced that it is "a great car."

RAMBLING IN RADIOLAND :-: Around the Dial In Fact, Fancy :-: NEWS AND PROGRAMS

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 4.—Discuss the radio caliphs with the average Broadway soothsayer and you are likely to be told that the broadcasters are nice people but they lack showmanship. You know, good old Broadway showmanship.

The other night the radio men proved they knew something about showmanship when they herded 2,000 entertainers—the prima donna contingent alone must have numbered 200 persons; in reality, of course, it was 200—in Madison Square Garden and put on for the Salvation Army the greatest benefit performance in the history of the town.

Huge benefit shows are not new to New York. In and out of season they are forever being staged, commanding the talents of the great and near-great. They are an old story, such an old story that today only about 75 per cent of the artists scheduled to appear actually show up. Their presentation runs on interminably and haphazardly. There is never order, never system to these things.

The caliphs of the microphone showed New York—and that dear, dear Broadway—how to put on a benefit performance. They not only ran their show smoothly and with some eye to variety, but they succeeded in putting all the entertainers they had listed in advance on the spot.

Little of the prima donna instinct came to the front, we are told. No one sulked because of a failure to occupy the center ring. The audience saw not only its radio favorites but many of the high priests of the theatrical world—all strutting their stuff, all giving a sample of the art which have made them household bywords.

Seeing them, the audience must have paid silent tribute to the mahatmas of the microphone who made such a show possible—M. H. Aylesworth, of N. B. C., and his chief director, John Royal. Aylesworth gave the word, did the grand marshaling, was the invisible ringmaster, while Royal was actually in command, cracked a sharp but benevolent whip over the circus, was the driving force that made the show and the grand and gaudy entertainment it proved to be.

The most novel hit on the long program—it lasted nearly four hours—was the introduction of Aylesworth, following the appearance of Amos 'n' Andy, of "a new comedy team, Al and Jimmy."

Into the center of the ring came Al Smith and Jimmy Walker. Followed as graceful and happy a piece of wisecracking as the town has had in a year, finishing with Smith's suggestion that when he joins the Salvation Army he wants to play the big bass drum, and nodding to Walker, "you can have the tambourine."

A broadcasting dance band is the first consideration of a new hotel these days. There's no depression for the jazzbos. Like Ol' Man River they just keep rollin' along, giving the air to Broadway's sentimentality.

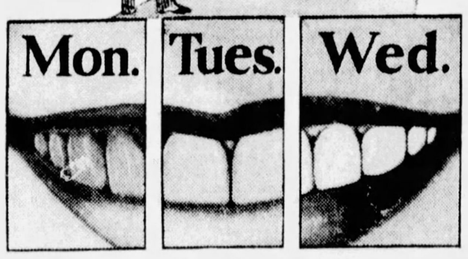
Now Remove Nasty Yellow

"You've a Mouth I'd Love to Kiss!"



Whiten Teeth

3 Shades in 3 Days

NOBODY likes to look at teeth that are dull, dingy, yellow, discolored or eaten away by decay. And there's now no reason why you should have such teeth. They're unnatural. And the new scientific Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique proves they're unnatural—by removing stain and yellow, and making teeth gleaming white.

Try this technique for a few days . . . A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. You'll note an improvement after the first brushing. Your mouth will feel cleaner than ever. And in just 3 days teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. All because Kolynos does what no ordinary toothpaste can do—it kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles. And cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

Beauty Tells of Tilts Climaxed by Mate's Queer Disappearance

By CHARLOTTE NIXON-NIRDLINGER

(Copyright, 1931, King Features Synd., Inc.)

This is the ninth installment of her own life story by Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, who, after a sensationally brief trial in Nice, France, was recently acquitted of the murder of her husband.

In previous chapters she told of her meteoric rise from obscurity to the pinnacle of a beauty queen; how she met the wealthy Philadelphia theater magnate and, after a whirlwind courtship, eloped and married him—only to find he had another wife. There followed his divorce from his second wife, re-marriage to Charlotte (who was wife No. 3) and the resumption of their quarrels.

Today Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger tells how her husband hired detectives to watch her and his threats and suspicions that reached their climax when he disappeared with the two children.

NICE.

Our arrival at Fred's summer home in Atlantic City marked the beginning of the end. It was then his jealous nature got beyond his own control and his suspicions ate into him and made my life, as well as the lives of my relatives and friends, miserable.

Early in the fall of 1929 my darling daughter, Charlotte, was born at the Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia. Again I thought it might make a change in Fred and again I was wrong. I now had two children to mother and did so to the best of my ability.

Although I never had to do hard work, still there was enough to do looking after a household and seeing the children had the proper food and clothes. I never neglected them and was always there for nursing every three or four hours until the ages of 10 months with junior and 6 months with Charlotte.

Because of this I did feel rather run down and tired and felt the need of exercise, so I took up skating in the winter and swimming in the summer. These two diversions, however, were to cause my husband to go into further spasms of jealousy, although it was he who hired a swimming instructor to teach me and accused the instructor of making love to me. How ridiculous this was I intend to reveal here.

Sleuth on Trail

At about this time Fred was objecting to everything I did—to my use of make-up (which, as my friends know, I always have used sparingly) to my appearance on the beach and even to the way I smiled. His own chief detective, "Dick" Black, admitted that I went to the President swimming pool at my husband's request and that Fred unjustly began to suspect Pat Riley, then swimming instructor at the pool.

Then Fred began to complain to father and mother that my bathing costume was immodest. In fact, some time later, in the summer of 1930, he sent father a bathing suit that belonged to me and asked him to look at it. Father looked it over and sent the bathing suit back to Fred with the comment that it was just like those which other bathers wore and which he had observed on the beach at Atlantic City.

Called Immodest

But Fred was insistent. This tangled idea if immoral dress was in his mind and he couldn't get it out. He sent father two pictures of me in an ordinary bathing suit. On one of the pictures he wrote: "Charlotte wore this at a party. When this is wet it leaves nothing to the imagination."

Shortly after father's arrival at Atlantic City, Fred complained to him that I was too much in the company of swimming instructors. One day two detectives came to our house and Mr. Nixon-Nirdlinger questioned them about me. It seems that for three months the detectives trailed me and, as Mr. Black, the chief detective, said, "For three months they did not discover a single wrong act." Nothing could convince Fred of this, however.

It was also Mr. Black who admitted that Fred constantly threatened to kill me — even threatened to do so in the detective's presence. He was in our house, in fact, when Fred attacked me with a vase and Mr. Black had to step in between us to protect me.

Fred in Rage

Fred particularly was in a fit of jealous rage against Pat Riley, the swimming instructor. He summoned Mr. Riley to our home—accompanied by his wife. As father said in his affidavit, Pat Riley appeared to be a man of good character. The same evening the instructor was called again to our home and, in the presence of my parents, I was forced by Fred to demand of Pat Riley that he never speak to me again. This he did.

Father tried to ignore all this, but Fred wouldn't let him. He told father that Pat Riley and his wife were blackmailing him—a silly, insane charge. Another time Fred made father look at his head in an attempt to prove that I had struck him with a lamp. But father could not find any mark of any kind on Fred's head.

But even after father and mother left, Fred continued to accuse me of being in love with Pat Riley and of "going about with him." Yet the only time I was with Mr. Riley was at the swimming pool, in full view of others.

Cartoon Used

Conditions began to grow worse. Fred's actions were beyond my understanding. Once, for instance, he wanted an original Christmas card to send his friends. He appealed to a widely known newspaper cartoonist. Fred had just come through litigation concerning his theaters and he had the entire trial done pictorially in tiny cartoons, the whole making a booklet of six pages, exclusive of the outside.

Later he sent over ideas for a card to the cartoonist, but he later refused to incorporate most of the suggestions in the card. One of the scenes depicted showed an irate man leveling a huge revolver at a shaking life guard. At first, many people receiving these cards thought this cartoon was meant for some man who had threatened me (no man other than Fred ever did). As a matter of fact, it was a reference to Fred's own jealousy of Pat Riley.

This reached such a stage that I finally determined to leave Fred, at least until his attitude changed. But to my dismay and horror I found he had anticipated my action. One day I returned home. The place was strangely silent. I called to the maid, but there was no answer. Fred had disappeared with the children and the nurses.

I was frantic. The thing I dreaded now seemed proved. Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger had gone a little mad as a result of an automobile accident a few months before. How that accident affected him I intend to relate tomorrow.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Life

Relief for high blood pressure and other health-destroying ailments that have kept thousands of sufferers in misery and doubt for years—is now seen in the modern discovery—BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUM.

The importance of this discovery cannot be denied when the life insurance companies refuse to issue policies to applicants with high blood pressure because it tends to shorten the span of life.

High blood pressure gives little warning, and until certain symptoms appear you are not aware of it. You may have head pains, hot flashes, flushed face, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness and palpitation of the heart. Remember that HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE is a symptom and not a disease in itself—IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO TAKE NOTICE.

LOEW'S RETAINS SCREEN AD BAN

Denouncing commercial advertising on the motion picture screen as being unfair to audiences, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., operating hundreds of theaters in this and foreign countries, today issued an official statement in New York that his theaters would continue to refuse screen advertising.

A copy of the statement was received here by H. M. Addison, manager of Loew's Penn Theater, which is affected by the statement. As president also of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, one of the leading producing companies, Schenck said his studios would not produce films subsidized by commercial advertisers.

In a statement prepared for publication in The Loew-Down, his company's house organ, Schenck said:

"Loew's theaters were probably among the first to be offered huge sums to run subsidized motion pictures. However, our decision was and still is to refuse to use our screens for advertising. At present we see no reason to change our attitude.

"We have been very active in trying to persuade other producers and theater operators to take a stand against screen advertising similar to ours. We are continuing these efforts to free the screen from anything but entertainment. We are hopeful that the entire industry will take a stand against screen advertising and not attempt to force our theaters into that field."

Goat Island Gets Old Spanish Name

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP.)—Goat Island has been abolished as the name for a place in San Francisco Bay where there is a naval station. It is now Yerba Buena, as it was before goats observed by folks who had rounded the horn in the 50's caused a change.

Legal Ruling Bans City Aid to Conventions

SCHOOL VISITORS SCORE ACT ENDING OFFICE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Thumbnail portraits: Mrs. Enoch Rauh . . . . The director of the city's Department of Public Welfare . . . . Probably the most agreeable person in the City - County Building . . . . . Likes Victor Hugo's writings and chocolate ice cream sodas, but NOT onions . . . . . Her favorite actor, Arliss. . . Actress, Mrs. Fiske . . . Composer, Wagner . . . . Likes baseball and spends most of her time doing things for people, or reading . . . . . Her favorite Pittsburgher, Carnegie . . . And her favorite story: Several years ago she appeared before Council to plead for an appropriation with which to add two physicians to the staff at the city's hospital at Mayview . . . . Mrs. Rauh felt the need keenly, and she made her plea eloquently . . . . And at great length . . . . In conclusion she orated, "Gentlemen, if you will only give me the tools, I shall be glad to do the work. My friends, remember, you and I are partners in a common enterprise!" . . . . As Mrs. Rauh was leaving the room an impressed councilman shouted after her in stentorian tones, "Mrs. Rauh, you may be a partner, but you certainly aren't a silent partner!" . . . . .

Where Nevada openly welcomes the gambler, Pittsburgh, for the moment, at least, turns thumbs down. If you want to risk a penny these days you have to leave town. Slot machines have been out of the speakeasies, and the gambling rooms which offer roulette and dice and blackjack are dark.

Proprietors of the gambling houses take such bad turns as this with a philosophical shake of the head. (Note: Surely you know what a philosophical shake of the head is.) They are accustomed to such breaks, just as they are accustomed to winning, let us say, $5,000 (better known as five grand) one night and dropping it the next night.

There was one gambling house in the town which catered to the high-class trade—the carriage business. And it's uncommon knowledge that the bouncing checks taken in this spot bounced better and more often than the checks in any other spot in town.

All gambling places fall for their share of bad paper, as they say, and they expect it. Such losses they don't try to retrieve. They know that if they went before an alderman to complain about a bouncer, their doors would be closed permanently.

Moving the morgue building hasn't, as you might suspect, changed the building's dismal aspect, especially the chapel in which the unclaimed bodies are kept on exhibition. Visitors are still awed once they step into the building, and move about softly.

Charlie Leith, who used to be a morgue reporter, recalls one visitor, a Negro, who dropped in every day to see, so he said, if any of his friends were present. For years the man did this, until finally the morgue attaches decided to test his courage.

Just before he arrived one night Leith lay on a slab and pretended he had departed this earth. The visitor eventually paused in front of Charlie's slab, whereupon Charlie winked at him.

The man's eyes popped. Charlie added injury to insult by turning over on the other side. The visitor hurried away from there and hasn't been back.

Then there was the time a pedestrian was passing the morgue about midnight. Fire Marshall Tom Pfarr, who answered every big fire alarm, came running out of the morgue building in his white hat and white rubber coat. The pedestrian confessed later he didn't eat for three days.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 4.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Our municipal election ran true to political form. The sewer was defeated but the councilmen got in. In our big murder case out here the fellow they are trying for a double killing came pretty near being elected to the office of judge. Looks like if he had bumped off three he would have been elected. I was telling you the other day about what a lot of "hooey" this college "honorary degree" is. Well, my contention was borne out. Didn't you see where Wickersham got one at Syracuse University?

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

TWO STEAL CAR RIDES, INJURED

A man and a boy injured last night while, police say, they were stealing rides on street cars, were in hospitals today.

George Whisiski, 28, of 328 Garnet way, was knocked from the rear end of a car by a truck at Liberty avenue and Twenty-seventh street, police said. He suffered fractured ribs and lacerations and was taken to West Penn Hospital.

Alvin Numley, 13, a Negro, 2011 Mulberry way, suffered an injury to his right leg on a street car at Penn avenue and Thirteenth street. His leg, protruding from the side of the car, struck a parked automobile. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Dawes and Smed Vie for Cussing Supremacy of Air

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Got to do something about the radio soliloquies of Smedley Butler and Ambassador Dawes.

Butler speaks English with the bark on. And Mr. Dawes always talks like he was home.

Not that we object to it but some night they might accidentally get on the children's hour.

They've put Smedley on an oratorical diet of 10 cuss words a speech. Dawes is allowed more because he represents this nation abroad.

But the glue will get stickier if the Democrats also resort to profanity, because they've got more to cuss about.

Butler was clipped short by a radio station for yelling some naughty words into the mike recently. Instead of this being a lesson to Dawes it seemed to make him more ambitious.

There's only one thing to do. Let the boys compete in a spelling bee on a national hookup and nominate the winner as White House spokesman.

With the high tariff, depression, prohibition and farm relief all kicking around like broken piston rods, it seems that a man like Butler could pep up the conversation without changing the subject.

OFFICER HELD ON CHARGE OF CONSTABLE

Dravosburg Chief in Hearing Asserts Discharge of Tear Gas Was Accident

Police Chief Charles A. Livingston, of Dravosburg, was held for court on a charge of assault and battery at a hearing before Justice of the Peace W. H. Heath, of Greenock, last night. The other charges against the police chief were dismissed at the hearing.

According to Constable George W. Nicholls, of Elizabeth Township, Chief Livingston shot him in the face with a tear gas gun in an argument at a party in Elizabeth Township Friday night.

STEEL STRIKE DEADLOCKED

Members of the Structural Steel and Ornamental Iron Workers Union are still on strike. They are demanding a 15-cents an hour increase from $1.50 to $1.65, and that union men unload and handle material. This work now is done by laborers at 80 cents an hour. Steel construction on the several large buildings has been at a standstill four days.

Since a meeting Friday which the union committee left after refusal of the Building Trades Employers' Association to consider the wage increase, no negotiations have been held, F. O. Reed, secretary of the association said.

Pittsburghers Attend Hearing On Air Line

A delegation of Pittsburghers was in Washington today to attend the hearing before Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, on the application for the extension of the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati air mail service by way of West Virginia. The delegates were Frank Wilbur Main, a director of the Chamber of Commerce; Raymond A. Tucker, chairman of the aeronautics committee, and Leo Russlander, general counsel of the Main Aeronautics Company.

Advisory Board Sets Meet at Uniontown

The seventeenth regular meeting of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board is to be held next Thursday in the White Swan Hotel in Uniontown. This will be the first general meeting of the year. It is expected that several hundred representatives of industry and railroads will be in attendance to discuss the transportation situation and the car requirements for the forthcoming third calendar quarter.

Books of Ex-Czars On Shelves in Washington

The purchase of 1,632 volumes from the winter palace library of Nicholas II, the late ruler, was announced by Librarian Herbert Putnam. They were brought to America by a New York bookseller and acquired by the library.

Though most of them bear the bookplate of the last czar, one volume dates back to Peter the Great and several to Alexander III.

HALL SQUATTER DEFIANT

With her "Home for Homeless Women" still functioning in one room of Old City Hall, Mrs. Helen Uptegraff, 60, today said that she will defy efforts of the county to eject her. She said:

"The Commissioners gave me permission to stay here. I won't leave."

The "home," lighted at night only by the street lamps shining through the Smithfield street windows of the old city building, housed half a dozen women last night. Some were still "sleeping in" late this morning on couches in the bare room that was once an office of highest city officialdom, later part of the Mellon Bank and last used by the Mothers' Assistance Fund of the county.

James E. Routley, assistant chief clerk of the County Commissioners, today said that Mrs. Uptegraff got permission to occupy a room in the building by misrepresentation. The commissioners thought she had something to do with the Y. W. C. A. and wanted to hold meetings in the unoccupied building, according to Routley. He said:

"She can be put out at any time. We have let her stay because she is harmless and has no place to go."

Unknown Man Dies In Fall From Train

Morgue attaches today were endeavoring to establish the identity of a man, about 50, killed last night when he fell under the wheels of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train near the Riverton crossing, McKeesport.

City Discontinues Free Rides in Parks

Council has notified the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company that the city this year would not resume the free bus rides on Sundays in Schenley, Highland and Riverview parks. During the summers of 1928 and 1929 the city paid the coach company for five coaches every Sunday at $35 a day each.

Gifts of Taxpayers' Money Unauthorized by Statute, Solicitor Tells Council

Soldier and fraternal organizations that have been financially assisted by the city in the past in paying the expenses of conventions held in Pittsburgh will be denied appropriations in the future, according to an opinion submitted to Council yesterday by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Council had asked Waldschmidt if a former opinion that ruled against such appropriations applied to conventions of soldiers and others for which $2,500 was set up in the 1931 budget. Waldschmidt replied:

"I can find no statute which authorizes the payment of money raised by city taxes for the relieving of certain organizations or individuals desiring to have conventions in this city."

Waldschmidt explained the city has the right to take care of soldiers' monuments, decorate graves and provide meetings places for soldier organizations.

CORPUS CHRISTI RITES HELD

LATROBE, Pa., June 4.—The feast of Corpus Christi, one of the greatest holy days on the calendar of the Catholic church, was being celebrated today at St. Vincent College here with all the splendor and religious pomp of the middle ages.

Thousands thronged the spacious church and campus and took part in the ceremonies which were opened with a solemn mass, after which the public profession of belief in the Holy Eucharist took place.

During the morning Archabbot Alfred Koch was to carry the Blessed Sacrament in a solemn procession. Benediction was to be given at two ornamented altars on the college campus.

Friend Funeral Rites Arranged for Today

Funeral services were to be held today for Porter Charles Friend, 81, former councilman and police magistrate who died in his home at 927 Maryland avenue. The services will be held in the H. COUNCIL SEAT VOTE NEAR

Mayor Charles H. Kline and members of Council will vote probably next Monday to fill the vacancy caused by the death a few months ago of George J. Kambach.

Action was delayed because of the absence from his office of Mayor Kline, who returned to his desk last Monday. The Mayor said yesterday he would confer with members of Council soon.

Mentioned in rumors for Kambach's successor are Maj. J. H. Shenkel, clerk of Quarter Sessions Court; Attorney Herman Ruoff and Fire Chief Richard L. Smith. They all live in the Nineteenth Ward.

SPURNED MAN GETS DIVORCE

His wife wanted to go out every night, but not with him, according to the testimony of Gustave A. Kunis, 35, of North Braddock, granted a divorce from Philomina Miller Kunis, of Lonaconing, Md., by Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Common Pleas Court. They married February 28, 1929, and she left him April 19, 1930, he said.

Mrs. Edith Rebecca Schettler, 130 South Negley avenue, filed a divorce suit in Common Pleas Court against George H. V. Schettler, 921 Murtland avenue, on the grounds of cruelty and indignities. They were married December 4, 1929.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Mills, 307 Hays street, Wilkinsburg, asked a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Charles Barton Mills, 7151 Verona boulevard, alleging she was deserted by him May 10, 1929, without cause. They were married September 22, 1926.

A preliminary injunction was obtained by Albert H. Smith from Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court to restrain C. M. Gibson and the Shoemaker Lumber Company from using his property in Fawn Township, with a final hearing fixed for next Tuesday.

SAVED MONEY, AIDED BOARD, WORKERS SAY

Active Members Point to Achievements to Justify Posts; Loss Regretted

Members of the more active boards of school visitors in Pittsburgh today denounced that part of the Mansfield bill amending the Pennsylvania school code which abolishes the visitors' boards.

The bill, signed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot yesterday, took the visitors by surprise. It had been proposed in Philadelphia and passed through the Legislature without warning to the Board of Education or to the visitors' boards, themselves.

POINT TO WORK

Visitors pointed out today that they had helped the Board of Education to find and correct bad conditions in many schools. Many groups, however, had not functioned actively and will not be affected by their dismissal.

Albert R. Blisk, secretary of the Thirteenth Ward board, said:

"That's rotten. Our board has been instrumental in saving the city thousands of dollars.

"We found the lighting system in several of the schools so adjusted that one turned on unnecessary lights with the same switch with which one turned on necessary lights. The Board of Education investigated and mended them. We were instrumental in getting the first rest rooms in Pittsburgh schools; we were among the first to advocate junior high schools."

WOULD HAVE FOUGHT

Mrs. Allena G. Stuhlfire, secretary of the Third Ward board, said:

"I think it was done in a sneaky way. We certainly would have fought it, if we had known of the bill."

E. P. Ebberts, secretary of the Eleventh Ward board, said:

"If the visitors' boards functioned right, they would be of considerable value. I think ours did considerable good. I only hope the Board of Education will set up something in its place."

Mrs. Belle D. Pardick, secretary of the Twenty-second Ward board, declared:

"It's ridiculous. The visitors do more for the public schools now than any one member of the Board of Education. We had the Daniel Webster School put in good condition after we found it dilapidated. Nothing has been left undone in our ward."

GRAHAM REGRETS ACT

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, said yesterday:

"Naturally, I regret that Senate Bill No. 650 amended the code in such a way as to remove the office of school visitors. Our relationship with the boards of school visitors in Pittsburgh has always been pleasant and cooperative. The desire for this amendment to the school code did not originate in Pittsburgh."

Man Fights Extradition On Ex-Wife's Charges

Avery C. Gilleo, 237 Castle Shannon road, was fighting extradition to Michigan today through a writ of habeas corpus he was to file in Common Pleas Court, seeking to evade being returned to his former home in Grand Rapids where he would have to face a charge of failing to support his children by a divorced wife.

Arthur R. Sherk, assistant prosecuting attorney of Grand Rapids, and John O'Leary, a Grand Rapids policeman, presented extradition papers, granted by Gov. Pinchot, to Presiding Judge George V. Moore, in Criminal Court, late yesterday. Attorney John B. Nicholas, for Gilleo, asked time to present a habeas corpus petition, and Judge Moore agreed to release Gilleo, under the $1,000 bail he had already furnished, until a hearing today.

Gilleo was divorced in Grand Rapids in 1926, the Michigan court at that time making an order that he pay regular sums to his former wife for support of their children. The court also stipulated that Gilleo must not leave Michigan. Under the Michigan law it is a felony not to contribute to the support of children, when ordered to do so by the court.

BUHL HOUSING PLAN LAUDED BY HERRON

Asks Council to Commend Foundation for Model Home Community Project

On motion of President John S. Herron, Council has ordered a resolution for presentation next Monday commending the Buhl Foundation for the 300-family community the foundation proposes to erect on a 45-acre site on Mt. Washington.

The first unit, costing $1,000,000, would provide homes for 125 families and construction is expected to begin next month, under the plan.

LAWNS, PARKS, GARDENS

Homes would occupy 30 per cent of the site, the remainder providing central parks with lawns and gardens around each dwelling. Houses will be of five, six and seven rooms each, with a ground and second floor.

Herron offered his motion after his attention was called to a Sun-Telegraph article outlining the plan. He declared:

"I think we should commend those in charge of the Buhl Foundation for this excellent program. At this time, anything that provides work as well as housing is of double value. The plan will improve our city and is a credit to those who foster it."

QUERY ON UNSAFE HOMES

On motion of Robert Garland, the Law Department was asked to begin negotiations to determine whether the scope of the Buhl Foundation would include the rehabilitation of the 246 buildings that have been declared "unfit and insanitary" by the Health Department.

Health Director C. B. Maits reported to Council that the 246 buildings were dilapidated and a menace. Council yesterday ordered that they be reported to the Bureau of Building Inspection with instructions to order razing or repairs as the case justified.

MAYORS DENIED WINE ORGY

RHEIMS, France, June 4.—(INS.)—Fearing to embarrass the American mayors touring France, officials of Rheims today canceled plans for a luncheon to have been held in a wine cellar.

The affair was held instead in the offices of the local chamber of commerce.

Original plans called for luncheon in a champagne cellar, where faucets were to have been placed beside each napkin. The faucets were to be connected with pipe lines running to barrels, so that mayors could turn on the champagne to suit their individual taste.

P. C. W. TO LAY LIBRARY STONE

Others taking part in the ceremonies will be Dr. Cora Helen Coolidge and Miss Harriet McCarty, of the college staff, and students. Mrs. A. S. F. Keister, president of the Alumnae Association, will preside at its meeting and dinner.

INJURED IN LEAP FLEEING POLICE

James Hufnagel, 30 of 3426 Forbes street, was being held on a police charge in the Monefiore Hospital today, and his wife, Marie, 23, was detained for questioning because he jumped from a second-story window in his home when police went to interrogate him.

Inspector James Hoey said Oakland patrolmen went to Hufnagel's home in checking a story told by a girl, later released. When the police entered, Hoey said, Hufnagel kicked a screen from the window and jumped.

He has two broken ankles. Mrs. Hufnagel, police said, refused to answer questions. Hufnagel has been arrested numerous times since 1921, according to Bertillon records at detective headquarters.

DENIES OWING $50,000 IN SURETY CASE

Bonds Purchased on Contract Delivered, Banker Says In Reply to State Suit

E. M. Love, coal operator and banker, filed his answer yesterday in Common Pleas court to the $50,000 suit brought against him by State Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Armstrong.

The answer denies that Love owes the $50,000 note found in the assets of the Pennsylvania Surety Company, of which he is a director. Instead the company owes him $575,000, Love's answer states.

He entered into an oral contract with the company for the purchase of $625,000 worth of securities, Love's answer avers, and paid $575,000 in cash and gave his $50,000 note for the securities, but they were never delivered.

The affairs of the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation are being liquidated by the State Insurance Department. The suit was filed by Attorney W. Clyde Grubbs for Insurance Commissioner Armstrong.

The securities that Love states he failed to get for his $575,000 are listed in "Exhibit A" attached to the answer as: $200,000 Series KW; $100,000 Series C, and AA collateral trust notes of the First National Company of Baltimore; unspecified amounts of Chicago, Tampa, Moorehead-Bluff, DeLion Tire and Rubber Company and Waukesha Lime and Stone Company bonds, and, acording to the answer:

"Other bonds or securities of which defendant has no memorandum at this time but which are known to the officers of the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation, making a total of $625,000."

ARTIST STARTS ON LENGTHY PILGRIMAGE

Thomas Benton on Annual Overland Journey Seeking Themes for Paintings

By PENELOPE REDD

Once a year, Thomas Benton, American artist, takes to the open road.

A few days ago he turned up in Pittsburgh on the first stage of a pilgrimage that will take him over thousands of miles of water, forest and mountain trails and into the mills and factories of a score of American communities.

Penelope Redd

Outfitted like a David Grayson, high boots, khaki breeches, green sweater and carrying a knapsack packed with sketch books, he arrived here en route to Braddock to draw in the Edgar Thomson steel mills.

The same night he caught a train to Cincinnati where he was to board a Mississippi Valley Barge Line sternwheeler for a leisurely voyage to New Orleans.

Scenes and characters typical of "Old Man River" will be transferred to Benton's sketch book to appear later, perhaps, in mural paintings.

Named for a kinsman who was a colleague of Andrew Jackson's, Senator Thomas Benton, he is of a family that has long favored political careers. His father was a Congressman from Missouri.

Benton journeys annually where timber is felled, ore mined, and wheat threshed. He participates in the working lives of the folks.

STUDIED IN PARIS

Next he went to the Chicago Art Institute and later to study in Paris.

He returned to the United States to paint the American scene with a Walt Whitman-like inclusiveness.

Benton's veracious reports of American life are enhanced by his remarkably brilliant draughtsmanship and his superior intelligence.

In his mural paintings, recently completed at the New School for Social Research in New York City, he has incorporated hundreds of exact portraits from the life he has experienced.

In the next international exhibition at Carnegie Institute, Benton will show two paintings from Ozark Mountain folk ballads, "The Jealous Lover of Long Green Valley" and "The Engineer's Dream."

Foster to Address North Side Traders

Judge D. Paulson Foster will address the North Side Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Thursday night, June 11. He will discuss "Present-Day Juvenile Court Work." The Chamber of Commerce will meet in new quarters at 100 East Ohio street.

Couple Celebrate 55th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Steinecker, of 1415 Brownsville road, Carrick, today were receiving congratulations from their many friends on the occasion of their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary. The couple are in business in the South Side Market House.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere mogement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

CITY'S RUBBISH CLEANUP WILL BE EXTENDED

Hauling to Be Continued Next Week; Huge Amounts Of Refuse Being Removed

The city's cleanup campaign will continue next week with such trucks and labor as can be spared in the Department of Highways and Sewers, according to Frank E. Richards, assistant superintendent who has been directly in charge.

Six trucks furnished by the Retail Coal Dealers' Association are at work in the Hill district. It is expected the worst of the rubbish and ashes will be removed with this equipment and that the finishing touches will be added with city trucks. The coal dealers have given the use of their trucks only for the week ending Saturday.

Large quantities of rubbish are being hauled. A lot owned by the city at Webster avenue and Crawford street, to which attention was called by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, has yielded approximately 72 five-ton truckloads of ashes and debris.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Events

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

At last after all these eager days of anticipation the opening day of the Allegheny Country Club Horse Show has arrived. Hundreds of the most eager were at the ring, Sewickley Heights, this morning, and many more attended the afternoon session. Tomorrow the show will continue, and end Saturday.

Very gay is the grandstand and the judges' stand in the ring, bedecked with flapping banners. Boxes are filled with smart spectators, and the parking spaces, as usual, have been eagerly sought out.

As a grand climax to the first day of the show will be the riding and driving costume party the William Christopher Robinsons will give. The guests will drive around the show ring at the close of the classes and then will go to the Robinsons' Sewickley Heights place, "Franklin Farms." The Robinsons' first-day horse show party has become a social legend.

Seen At Ringside

The two small sons of the John Joy Edsons are exhibiting much interest, Jimmie and John Joy Edson, Jr. They are wearing twin suits of blue and white poplin with white berets. Mrs. Lewis A. Park, in riding clothes, I noticed at the ringside, and with her is her house guest, Lydia Maxwell, of Philadelphia, who is wearing a green crepe dress with a hat of coarse yellow straw and chic white slicker.

Mrs. Eugene H. Kipp, in a box, has chosen an ensemble of lavender and white boucle with a lavender felt hat. With her is Jane Stevenson, in a riding habit, and her son, Wilson Kipp.

Garbed In White

Mrs. J. O. Burgwin, in a white crepe dress having a red and yellow motif at the neckline, and a white slicker, I noticed with her daughter, Virginia, who wore a jaunty little brown trench coat with a matching hat.

Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, ever an ardent equestrienne, is wearing a riding habit and is competing in many of the classes, as is her daughter, Nancy, also in a riding habit.

Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman is smart in pale blue crepe with a blue wool coat and white straw hat.

There's a change of date for a June event, the anniversary day at the Harmarville Convalescent Home. The Federation of Girls' School Societies, which sponsors this event and aids in maintaining the home, will hold its "day" on June 16 instead of June 19 as originally planned.

Event Changed

The W. S. McClintics will entertain members of the senior class and faculty of Arnold School at dinner on Tuesday night in the South Hills Country Club in honor of their son, Richard R. McClintic, who is president of the class.

Outlook Alliance Holds Annual Luncheon

Several features combined to make the annual luncheon of the Outlook Alliance one of the most delightful events this club has ever had. The luncheon was held yesterday at the Pittsburgh Field Club, with covers for 125 members and guests. There were lovely decorations, pink roses, African daisies and baby's breath being used on the officers' table, and the place cards were dainty butterfly and ribbon affairs.

On behalf of the clubs Mrs. S. J. Corbett presented the retiring president, Mrs. H. D. Stark, with a handsomely fitted traveling bag and an evening bag of seed pearls and needlepoint.

Program By Trio

After luncheon the Chaminade Trio, Adalaine Merrill Biddle, Margaret Leyda and Mary Jane Paul, gave a short program of entertainment that was enthusiastically received. Mrs. Leyda offered two groups of songs, one in Indian costume and the other in a most becoming hoopskirted gown. Mrs. Biddle accompanied. Miss Paul's two contributions were an amusing, original sketch descriptive of a self-centered woman rehearsing a minor part in an amateur play for the first and the other was the story of the little boy and his gingham-aproned mother-angel.

The afternoon was rounded out with cards.

JELLIES AND JAMS MADE AT HOME ARE GOOD INVESTMENT

Every housewife has the chance to "get ahead" next winter by putting up fruit now. Sugar is low in price, and there are always bargain days for each fruit and berry.

A little concentrated effort as each fruit crop reaches its peak will result in a cupboard well stocked with canned fruits, jellies, jams and relishes from which one may draw freely throughout the winter.

Since fruit belongs in the diet and should appear in some form at every meal, the economy of a home supply is readily apparent. Cane sugar is ideal for all kinds of canning. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

GOLD LAME FAVORED AS SUMMER FABRIC

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 4.—The pot of gold at the end of the sartorial rainbow emerges in the form of gold lame. This lovely, shimmering fabric that has the appearance of molten gold is being used with conspicuous success for some of the season's loveliest ensembles. Ordinarily lame is not really a summer fabric, but as we have velvets and woolens with us during this time of year there is no reason why lame should not be let into the charmed circle of successful summer fabrics. It is used for frocks destined for gala occasions and festivities, and for this purpose is the ideal choice. Gold lame especially is rich and magnificent and when made with restraint creates an exquisite effect. Restraint in the making and detailing of a gold lame ensemble or frock cannot be too strongly emphasized, otherwise the result will be theatrical and even tawdry. And it should be worn only by a woman blessed with a slim, tall figure and stately carriage.

VERY GLAMOROUS is the gold lame ensemble sketched during the showing of Worth's latest collection. The decolletage in front is crossed with two narrow straps which clasp together by means of an exquisite jeweled buckle. Soft draping across the front of the bodice gives a becoming effect. The narrow belt is jeweled in strass and emerald colored stones. A hip-length wide-sleeved coat of the lame is lined with emerald greet satin.

Freshness is only one step in getting GOOD COFFEE

We've learned a lot about coffee in the last 72 years. And the most important thing is .... that your best coffee is the coffee you like best .... no matter what it costs or how it is packed.

Of course you want your coffee fresh. That's as important as having a coffee that exactly suits your taste. So A & P has made natural freshness of newly-roasted coffee—the out-of-the-oven freshness that cannot be imitated—a prime essential of A & P Coffee Service. And we are able, as no other coffee merchant is able, to guarantee this natural freshness. You see, we sell more coffee by far than any other organization. The coffee sells so fast that there's no time for any of it to become stale.

But that's only one point to consider. We've found what people like in coffee—in its flavor, body, aroma and strength. And we found years ago that no one blend can please everyone. So we developed, as you know, three different blends, Eight O'Clock, Red Circle and Bokar. One of these three blends far outsells all other coffees in the world; another is the second largest seller. The third has already won fifth place in the few years it has been on the market.

Again, here's something else. Have you ever thought what perfect grinding means in making good coffee? Not ready-made, open-the-box grinding, but accurate, carefully adjusted grinding that guarantees your coffee in exactly the right condition to give you perfect results from your favorite method of coffee making. What a difference that makes! : : Understand, too, that we don't want simply to sell you coffee. We want you to enjoy it—to have perfect coffee in your cup. So we've studied the methods of coffee experts, and have gathered these methods together in the form of simple, accurate directions for making perfect coffee by any method. They're in our Coffee Booklet. You may have one any time.

Study coffee a little—and find a new pleasure and comfort in the grand old drink that has become America's best-loved beverage.

And again—remember that the coffee you like best is the best, no matter what it costs or how it is packed.

Who Is Boss in Your Home, Father or Mother?

We thought the slogan "Papa is Boss" went out with bustles and hoopskirts . . . but plainly, there was something wrong with our reasoning—because.

Here's a picture of a gentleman who thinks he must be the big shot in the family—

And who, every time the Little Woman ventures an opinion, has conniptions for fear she has "showed folks that she doesn't listen to him—"

HUBBY GIVES ORDERS

It's a picture, incidentally, of one more marriage about to hit the toboggan—

My Dear Sally Martin:

I wonder if you can't give me some advice. I am so worried that I don't know what to do. My husband and I are always quarreling. Don't think that we don't love each other, because we do. We love each other very dearly and, when we're not quarreling, we are very affectionate.

We have been married for 16 months, and I don't know quite what to make of my husband. He always says that he is boss of the house, and he thinks that whatever he tells me to do, I should do without saying a thing.

Sometimes he's in bed and he tells me to get up and fetch him a drink of water. Can you beat that? I don't always do it. Sometimes I say "Get it yourself," but he talks like that just the same.

And if we go anywhere, he tells me—"Now, whatever I say, listen to me. Don't make people think you don't listen to me."

MADE HIM ANGRY

Once we were at his mother's, and I wanted a haircut. He said no. I said yes. Then I told him that whether he liked it or not, I was going to get it. I did. But when he came home, the argument started. He said that I shouldn't have made such a fool of him in front of his mother. I told him I never had long hair, and I never intended to. I think the whole thing is that he wanted to show off in front of his mother, and I told him so. Of course he was furious, but I still think that was it.

Won't you please try to help us? I know we would be so much happier, if it weren't for this continual quarreling. Is he right, or am I? What is wrong?

ARLENE.

Who's right? Who should boss the house? You are, honey—yet neither of you should "boss." Marriage is a partnership, that you should both give your best to, and both have an equal say in. A partnership wherein you should talk things over, amiably and sensibly, and decide what's best for both of you. A partnership where each of you has a right to be an individual, as well as husband or a wife.

WANTS TO SEEM STRONG

And why hasn't your Romeo realized that? What's wrong with him? Go easy on him, girl! He's having a harder time than you suspect. What's eating him is, he's plain scared! Yes, scared! Although I know he'd die before he'd admit it!

He wants you to look up to him and admire him, and he's terribly afraid that if he isn't bossy, he'll seem weak, and you won't feel that he's a Big, Bold Bozo. So in his mistaken, tangled, foolish way, he's trying desperately to make a success of your marriage.

Of course, he's wrong . . . terribly, tragically wrong. And every time he plays the bully, or insists on your agreeing with him in front of company, he's showing himself up for just what he is . . . a boy who actually feels anything but the Goliath he's pretending to be . . . because strong men don't need to make a fuss to prove their strength . . . and every one of his audience knows it, and judges him accordingly. So help him to understand what ails him, my dear, and how he is two-timing himself. Then learn to be friends, you two!

'Growing Old Together'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

There was a little child I knew once, long ago, with hair the color of milk-weed floss, that faery-stuff that journeys through the air to new lands—a pioneer, and a fine peppering of freckles across its nose, who looked up adoringly to a beloved parent and said solemnly for one so young—"WE'RE GROWING OLD TOGETHER, AREN'T WE?"

Growing old together. That's the way to live with your little child. Do you know that you lose some of that little child of yours every day? The May child is very precious—in June he is gone. The September child has a thousand lovelinesses and winsome ways and fugitive beauties of chee-curve and candle-light in the eyes, wonderful things to say for himself if you will listen. And in December that child is gone.

You have a baby in a Christopher Robin sweater with a pooh-bear under his arm, and you sit back and think that baby is here to stay for at least a little while—and one day you widen your eyes; before you stands a boy in terrible knickerbockers and a tie like his father's and the light of airplanes and mechanics in his eyes—and your baby is—GONE.

Gone while you missed some of the joy in him. Fled away before your eyes while you let precious moments of looking at him, understanding him, OWNING him, go by. Vanished while you looked only at some of the tedious duties that came with him, while you fussed about the mud on his little seat and were blind to the shine on his hair, while you sighed prodigiously over having to help him with a big word and did not hear the grand word he just used himself!

Little children along with themselves, bring a bundle of trouble that sometimes staggers you quite. But don't let the bundle cheat you out of the joy that came along, too, joy hung with flowers and glittering with laughs.

Steal all the time you can off from being a grownup, and play with the child that is here such a painfully short time.

That little child I first spoke of has built her life on the memories of wonderful shared days with the parent who "grew old with it."

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Sensitiveness to Good Manners

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Your hints on etiquette have been so helpful to me that I naturally turn to you when I need help personally.

"A" claims when a girl bids a man goodnight after he has taken her out for an evening's entertainment, a movie and refreshments, the girl should, if she desires, say "I've had a lovely time." "A" says she should not say "thank you" to the young man.

"B," on the other hand, insists that the girl should, by all means, say "thank you," besides stating that she had an enjoyable evening. As you can see, the argument is over the words "thank you."

Anything that you may have to say on the matter will help.

H. K.

"B" has, to my way of thinking, more sensitiveness to good manners than "A." For all hospitality, no matter who gives it, we should express our "thank you," and then we should say what a happy time we have had. And so we show that we have appreciative spirits and that we are not niggardly in our expressions of thanks.

You'll Be Talked About If Not Careful

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow and am "keeping company" with a widower who has a car. We would like to go away on week-end trips. I would like to know what you think of this. Do you think there is a chance of spoiling my reputation by going away on these trips?

READER.

Lady, lady, just as sure as shootin' (and that pretty sure in these days!) you will get yourself disagreeably talked about if you do this. And even your close friends, who are supposed to "understand," won't understand, and you will, and justifiably, be terribly criticised. Think deeply about this!

A Tablecloth for the Bride

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My niece is to be married and I want to give her a linen tablecloth, and I would like to know whether I should make a very narrow hem, and by hand, or should I have a wider hem and have it hemstitched?

BETTY.

It would be best to French hem the tablecloth and napkins. For the tablecloth it should be three-eighths of an inch to one-half an inch wide, and the napkins should have hems of from one-eighth of an inch to one-quarter of an inch.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Value of Insulin in Treating Diabetes

Not so long ago diabetes was a fatal disease. Due to the efforts of science this disease is now successfully controlled.

Dr. Copeland

The disease is caused by the failure of the body to supply the substance called "insulin." Under normal conditions insulin is abundantly formed in the pancreas, the "sweetbread." In diabetes certain changes occur in this organ which diminish the supply of insulin. This is a misfortune, because without insulin the body cannot handle sugar.

As a result of this lack of the natural insulin, there is an increase in the amount of sugar in the blood. This is soon followed by the appearance of sugar in the urine.

The purpose of the modern treatment of diabetes is to restore the missing insulin to the blood. In mild cases, the same result can be accomplished by restricting the sugar-producing foods in the diet. In this way, less insulin is required and the "mild diabetic" can supply this amount from his own body.

In severe cases the problem is more difficult. In addition to supervision of their diet, these patients require certain definite amounts of insulin, artificially prepared. This is given by the hypodermic administration of insulin.

The insulin is obtained by extracting it from the pancreas of certain animals. After purification it is sealed in vials and given to the patient. No person should ever take insulin without the advice and supervision of a physician.

It requires careful study to determine accurately how much insulin should be taken. This is done by a careful study of the amount of sugar in the blood and the urine. No two cases are exactly alike.

The diet of the diabetic is extremely important. This fact is overlooked too many times. Please, do not assume that because the patient is taking insulin he may eat anything. Strict adherence to a carefully planned diet is just as important for the relief of the patient as is the administration of the insulin.

It should be understood that insulin can never cure the diabetes. However, it does give the pancreas leisure to recuperate and regain a more healthy condition. Watchful care of the diet must not be forgotten.

Household Hints

Butter the bottom of the preserving pan before pouring in the contents to prevent jam or marmalade from burning or boiling over.

Life and attractiveness may be added to turkish towels whose edges have become frayed by cutting off the worn parts and binding the fresh edges with strips of colored gingham.

Salt and water make a good cleanser for the wicker furniture, and a solution of warm water and small amount of turpentine is considered by some even better. It will clean out those crevices with magical swiftness and thoroughness.

One of the most effective methods of whitening and purifying sponges is simple enough. Soak the sponge in milk and rinse thoroughly in warm water to which a little carbolic acid has been added. The sponge will be like new after this treatment.

Noel's Betrothal Gift to Mary—His Mother's Ring

Lillian was as good as her word. She "kept the procession moving, out into the night," with such celerity that within three-quarters of an hour past midnight the members of the house party at The Larches, together with Philip Veritzen, had been regaled with Katie's midnight supper, and were on their way home. Marion, alone of the group of Yale boys and Whitney girls, remained behind with her mother and stepfather, but I heard Ronald's assurance that he would telephone her early to find out when he could come over after her.

The door was scarcely closed after him, however, when Marion was all-little-girl-on-Christmas-Eve again. It is a traditional farmhouse custom to group the Christmas gifts upon chairs and small tables near the Christmas tree, assigning one to each member of the family and Marion caught her stepfather's hand as she danced back from the doorway where she had bidden Ronald goodbye.

"Oh! I thought they never would go," she said, and Harry Underwood cocked a doubting Thomas eye at her, and drawled "Ye-ah?"

Marion flushed but stood her ground stoutly.

"I don't care. I mean it," she said. "I don't mean that I'm not having the spiffiest time I ever had in my whole life, but putting the presents around the tree on Christmas Eve, that's just for your own folks."

Behind me Lillian caught her breath, a sound so faint that only I heard it. But I knew that she was infinitely relieved to hear her child's apparently sincere little speech, with its implication that she did not yet consider Ronald as "own folks."

"All right, my dear," her stepfather said. "But I haven't been here for a long time, you know, so you must show me what to do."

"No, she mustn't," Dicky put a peremptory hand on his arm. "We've a pressing engagement with those train tracks downstairs. Everything else is about finished, but we've still some problems. Besides we'd never get the chairs arranged to suit these two finicky Christmas sharks to whom we're united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Marion, you grab hold of Mary and Noel, and make them help you do the dirty work. The only bossing of the job will come from the ladies on the right."

He rushed his friend toward the door, and Marion, giggling, went in search of Mary and Noel who had taken refuge in the library. For half hour we worked steadily, for we had to pile up the separate gifts of all the people in the house to each other. When we had almost finished, and were congratulating ourselves upon the attractiveness of the tables with their burdens of gaily wrapped and beribboned parcels, Noel touched me on the arm.

"Would you mind coming into the library a minute?" he asked.

"Indeed not," I assured him, and walked quickly away with him. With the door closed behind us, he spoke falteringly.

"This is all so new to me. When you receive the presents in the morning, do you open them before everybody?"

"Usually we do, Noel," I told him with the remembrance of the merry excitement of past Christmas mornings. "But—it isn't necessary. Is there something about this that troubles you?"

"Yes, there is," he acknowledged. "I want to do what all the rest do, of course, but the gift I have for Mary—is something I shouldn't like to have everybody see—"Oh! I don't mind you, of course, but those brothers of hers, and—and—it's something that belonged to my mother—a ring—nothing my father gave her"—there was sudden bitterness in his tone "but something that came from her own people. It's sacred someway, and I—"

"Of course, it is, Noel," I said briskly, "and you must not think of putting it with the other things. You will not be the only one reserving a gift to bestow it in privacy. My husband and I always exchange our gifts before we come down stairs on Christmas morning."

His face lightened wonderfully.

"Thank you so much," he said fervently, and I left him looking like a young knight of old as he waited for his beloved lady.

I did not see him again that evening, he must have gone directly upstairs, but when Mary came back into the living room her eyes were starry, and she kept her left hand out of sight as she bade me good-night.

He had given her his mother's ring as a betrothal ring, I was sure, and I wondered worriedly if Philip Veritzen would recognize it and if the sight of it would anger him afresh.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Animation is the great little eye brightener. Expressionless eyes cause the face to take on the appearance of a mask. There is a sort of moulded rigidity of muscles and tissues. Not nice when observed on young faces. Something sad about blank, unseeing eyes.

Eyes don't change, mouths do. Emotions change the outline and character of the mouth. Large lips develop from the habit of mouth breathing. Drooping lip corners etch lines from nostrils into the chin. Smiling strengthens muscles, keeps the mouth blessed with an expression of amiability and sweetness.

Smarty girls don't ply the lipstick and the rouge compact in the presence of the best feller. Revealing the cosmetic source of beauty does not make for romance. The man who is in love regards his dear-heart as not precisely of this common earth, but a radiant creature sprung from the ether. When the girl of his dreams hauls out the old beauty repair kit, brings forth her pulchritude props, makes for herself a new painted face, his idol takes a step from the pedestal upon which his sentimental emotions have placed her. Men are old-fashioned. Honest, they are.

Kleenex is Safe

Disposable Tissues are used and destroyed. Less expensive than laundering

YOUR handkerchief may hold actual danger for you, as well as those about you. It collects germs. Then carries them back to your face again and again! During colds, these germs self-infect . . . make colds drag on and on. A germ-filled handkerchief should not be carried in pockets, purses, or stored in laundry bags.

What is the answer, you ask? Kleenex disposable tissues! Soft, gentle tissues that cost so little they may be used once and destroyed.

Kleenex prevents the irritation caused by damp, harsh handkerchiefs. Children prefer it, because it's so soothing, and no harm's done if it's lost. Office workers find it convenient to keep a package in the desk.

Many uses

Kleenex is advised by beauty experts for removing cold cream. It's convenient for manicuring. For wiping razor blades (prevents cutting towels). Invaluable in the nursery.

Buy Kleenex at drug, dry goods and department stores. Boxes at twenty-five cents, fifty cents and one dollar. In white and pure, safe tints.

Bacteriological Tests Show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 bacteria per handkerchief.
2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

How would YOU answer this Question?

"Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what tire do you consider the best tire made?"

A LITTLE bewildered by the shaky statistics of some recent tire advertisers, Goodyear asked the Bureau of Business Research of a great University to put the above question to 205,000 representative motorists to get the real low-down on this matter of tire superiority.

You can put calipers on treads and sidewalls, you can compare breaker-strips and cross sections until the cows come home, without knowing much more than you did before.

What you really want to know and have a right to know is simply this—what kind of service does the tire give?

The only people who can tell you the real answer to that fair question are the millions of other motorists like yourself who are wearing out millions of tires every month.

So, when there appeared to be a confusion of meaningless comparisons cropping up in the tire business, Goodyear went to the man who knows—the car owner himself.

HOW CAR OWNERS VOTED ON THE QUESTION
"WHAT MAKE OF TIRE IS BEST?"
. . . Based on a National Tire Survey in 1930 by a large University . . .

Suggesting Plays to Fit Amateur Groups In All Trades

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The play-acting microbe is attacking so many different classes of society that soon everybody will be buying grease-paint and memorizing their cues. Churches have their little theater groups and department stores their dramatic clubs. All the world's a stage, as Wilhelm von Stratford remarked, and all the men and women merely players.

George Seibel

It is announced that the city White Wings are planning to produce "Street Scene" and the Dairymen are rehearsing "Green Pastures."

Members of the wide-flung Smith family are going to put on two O'Neill plays, "The Emperor Jones" and "The Great God Brown." The Joneses and Browns intend to retaliate by playing "What Happened to Smith."

The Bookkeepers and Accountants will have a tryout of Elmer Rice's "Adding Machine."

The cooks are studying "Come Out of the Kitchen," the gardeners will stage "The Lily" or "Abie's Irish Rose," and the shoe dealers are to try on "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots."

The American Automobile Association is rehearsing "Turn to the Right," by Winchell Smith.

The American Forestry Association is planning to put on "The Willow Tree" or "Hearts of Oak." Maybe they will do "Desire Under the Elms."

DRAMAS FOR EVERYBODY

The watchmakers ought to play "The Witching Hour" or "Tickless Time."

The tellers and discount clerks will revive "The Banker's Daughter" or "Paid in Full." The traveling men promise a production of "Grand Hotel."

The aviators have little choice and have to do "All God's Chillun's Got Wings." But they might try Maxwell Anderson's "First Flight."

As for the electricians, "Lightnin'" is their best bet. But Gillette once wrote a play called "Electricity," or they might take "The Easiest Way."

And the milliners might do "Fine Feathers" or "The Bird of Paradise."

AS YOU LIKE IT

Divorce lawyers should stage Shakespeare's "Henry VIII" or "Love's Labor's Lost."

Toy dealers could put on "The Doll's House" of Ibsen or "A Tin Soldier" of Charles Hoyt.

The morticians can find their chance in "The Wooden Kimono," and the unemployed can get behind Shaw's "Apple Cart."

Employment agents ought to give us "The Servant in the House" or "Two Girls Wanted."

Evangelists might dig up that old one of Bret Harte's "Ah Sin" or "Hell-Bent fer Heaven." For policemen there's "Within the Law."

Yellow journalists would find a fine vehicle in "The School for Scandal," and our Walter Winchell might star in "Baby Mine."

For the barbers there is "Monsieur Beaucaire" and for the bootblacks "Getting a Polish," both by Booth Tarkington.

The druggists should take "What the Doctor Ordered," the Klan "The Road to Rome," while for the soap boilers either "The Bath Comedy" or "Saturday's Children" might suit.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

No wonder the couvert-charge places are dull . . . The gay crowd is staying indoors for whoopee, where one may remove his coat and vest, if one likes . . . That host, the other night, frixample . . . His pent-house served as the scene for the gayest affair I ever did enjoy . . . To which he invited the prettiest belles from the musicals, and he permitted them to bring their Favorite Persons . . . Of course there were a number of darlings who came unattached and trusted to luck . . . The vittles were free, and good, and the laughing soup was Grade A . . . For those who Prefer Privacy there appeared to be enough exclusive nooks, and his selection of records was delightful . . . It was all very honky-dooly, and such a welcome relief from the usual routine in the cabarets . . . That little girl in the cab in front of the cafe the other 5:30 a. m. gave me the shudders . . . "Is that a real baby in your arms?" I asked her . . . "Huh-huh," she nuh-huh'd, "it's mine. I know it looks terrible to have it up at this hour, but I just got a job dancing at Lynbrook and I cannot afford a nurse, yet" . . . Gee, I remember her when she was so slim and she used to spellbind the boys up at Guinan's and how they fought over her . . . Then love came along, and now looka!

I can just see Miss Guinan with her "hair down," as we vulgariaas prefer calling it . . . She can be so coy, you know, when the customers are coming in droves . . . But I've seen her angry . . . Her flippancies and her flip quips are always readable, of course, but when she is cracking wise, then it is that Texas is Burning to a Crisp . . . Those clergymen on board, who complained to the press about her girls, give me a pain . . . They alleged that one of the gals did a dance with a fan and "once," the story reported, "the fan folded" . . . Really? . . . Proving that a narrow mind is quicker than the eye . . . Broadway is familiar with that fan dance routine . . . The gal who does the specialty wears more clothes, including the fans, than any other 10 night club workers . . . At any rate I'm glad Tex is coming back . . . There ought to be a good column in the things she did and said over there that the wire services were too dignified to jot down.

The pictures on the office walls serve to divert a guy while he is waiting for the ideas to come . . . That one over there, frixample, of Broun, Cohan and myself . . . It was snapped that night at the Commodore, and Cohan, who reveals his fangs when movies are mentioned, was urged by the "talkie" men to hush his mouth . . . But George refused to be hushed and spoiled everything . . . Look at Jimmy Walker surrounded by the Broadway Bunch . . . Baer, the Mosconis, Fred Stone, Joe Cook, Tom Patricola, Eddie Buzzell, Jack Haley, etc. . . . Jimmy seems happier in that picture . . . Ah, there, Miss Damita, with your lovely shafts kicking in the air! . . . Look at Ginger Rogers' ankles . . . George Jean Nathan looking bothered . . . The Astaires and Marilyn Miller . . . Helen Morgan in her wistful manner . . . Evelyn Laye, whose first-night in "Bitter-Sweet" left so many of us limp . . . The one and only Etting . . . Russell Patterson's original illustration for the College Humor piece: "People Who Live in Glass Houses Shouldn't Throw Paragraphs!" . . . Russell shows me writing with my right paw . . . Capt. Frank Hawks in his plane . . . and last, and least, my own tootsie-wootsie, E. Barrymore!

If I were producing a "Follies" or "Scandals" my choice for the most nimble of the wags would be Jack Benny . . . The Big-Time certainly needs him . . . Mr. Ziegfeld wouldn't need any sketch-writers with Benny interrupting the proceedings with his pungent flippancies . . . And he doesn't have to take falls to make them laugh, either . . . The better-looking movie places with all their airs and highfalutin' manners are responsible for Broadway's small-time smell, these days . . . Not until the cinemagogues started the stunt of "barkers" out front on the pavement did the shopkeepers follow the pattern . . . Nowanights, the congestion of pedestrian traffic is worse, because this haberdasher or that one posts himself on the sidewalk and dangles neckwear before your orbs: "Nice ties, cheap!" they bark . . . "Getcha orange juice here!" . . . "Chop Suey and Dancing. All the hostesses you want" . . . Hmmmm, no like . . . Somebody ought to wise up the movie short makers of those various "Mickey Mouse" imitations, too . . . Golly, but they are third-rate! . . . They serve in a way, however . . . They serve to remind you of Mickey's magic!

Well, the theory is that if you have a sound imagination then your stories will be more readable in the paper . . . Those legends that came out of the courthouse the other day about "Two-Gun" Crowley's attempt to escape after he heard his death sentence were most interesting in printer's ink . . . But to hear the more accurate reporters tell it, what actually happened was that the murderer attempted to kiss his foster-mother farewell, and the officer handcuffed to him violently jerked Crowley back . . . Naturally, it made the desperado furious, so he jerked in reprisal . . . That, it appears, wouldn't have made a good paragraph, so the headlines blazed.

It is a little confusing, to say the least . . . I mean the sermons preached here and there concerning the Canyon . . . That hinterlander, the other day, for instance, who growled so in his column about the way those of us who Hiss and Tell for a living "glorify" Broadway . . . He reminds us that the Artery is too much like a Christmas Tree—covered with tinsel . . . And that it is spurious, counterfeit, false and etcetra . . . And that it is about time "the Broadway commentators ran out of whitewash" . . . Certainly he couldn't have meant me . . . My files prove that I am the Stem's most persistent no-man . . . Perhaps when I still was in my bloomers I sentimentalized about it, but not after I grew a beard! . . . He must have meant the newcomers, who are Carried Away By It All . . . They take it so to heart . . . Until someone or something wounds theirs . . . Then it is that they mature and they quit kidding themselves . . . My provincal critic, I fear, has been deceived into believing all he reads . . . When he comes to Manhattan I would enjoy showing him the numerous tomes handed down by historians of Broadway . . . Who found out a long time ago that New York's Main Street looks like any other small town avenue when the lights are doused . . . And it would please me a lot if more people could see the reminder that I have pasted on the carriage of my typewriter, to wit: "Broadway—The Long Lane of Short Careers!" . . . A deadly crack, I know, and the most merciless of the Broadway truths . . . But it keeps your collars from getting tight.

Lynn Fontanne and Lunt To Make Talkie Film

Definite announcement comes from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer that Ferenc Molnar's "The Guardsman" will be the first co-starring screen production for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The stage couple plan to start work on their initial film venture this month. Sidney Franklin, whose pictures include "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," "Devil May Care" and "A Lady's Morals," will direct. "The Guardsman," with a supporting cast yet to be selected, "The Guardsman" was produced on the New York stage by the Theater Guild seven years ago, leading roles with Lunt and Miss Fontanne in.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

The great Lord Tennyson in a beautiful poem refers to a woman's Adam's Apple as "The warm white apple of her throat." Consider your Adam's Apple. Touch it—your Adam's Apple—That is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Protect the delicate tissues within your throat. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants! Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

FOUR HORSEMEN TO RIDE IN MOVIES

THE FOUR HORSEMEN of Notre Dame are going to ride again—in the movies. Information coming to the Sun-Telegraph that negotiations are pending for the appearance on the screen of football's most famous backfield is confirmed by Elmer Layden, fullback on the renowned Irish outfit of 1924 and now director of athletics at Duquesne University. Indications are that contracts will be signed within a short time, so that history has not yet closed its pages on these former stars and you'll probably get another chance to see the colorful four in action, with the scene of their activities transferred from the barred field of the pigskin sport to Filmland.

Elmer Layden

The Universal Company, the producing firm that had planned a picture in which the late Knute Rockne was to have appeared—it was while en route to Los Angeles to complete arrangements for the feature that the famous coach met his death—decided to adhere to the idea of Notre Dame football coloring in making a substitute film. So it sought to engage in Rockne's place his most celebrated creation, the Four Horsemen.

LAYDEN ADMITS HAVING received an offer to appear in the picture, and similar proposals have been sent to Harry Stuhldreher, now coach at Villanova; Jimmy Crowley, coach at Michigan State, and Don Miller, assistant coach at Ohio State. The proposition is being considered, Elmer says, and probably will be accepted if one or two details can be worked out satisfactorily.

If an agreement is reached, as appears probable, the immortal backfield will go to Hollywood in July to make the picture. The film is to be a story with a football background, and the star of the cast will be Lew Ayres, with one of the prominent actresses of the screen world as leading woman.

AFTER A BELATED start, Ervin Brame has lost three out of four games, though in the main he has pitched good ball, in addition to adding a punch to the Pirate attack. Yesterday it was a bad bound that beat him, a double-play taking a freakish hop over Bill Regan's head and paving the way for two Boston runs.

Another factor was Rabbit Maranville, who not only cut off what would have been the winning run for Pittsburgh by a leaping one-hand catch of Pie Traynor's smash in the eighth inning, but brought in the deciding tally for the Braves in the tenth with a perfectly executed squeeze play.

MARANVILLE STILL IS in a class all his own as the age marvel of baseball. There are six older pastimers than the Rabbit in the majors, but of these Sam Rice alone is playing regularly, and he's in the outfield, where the toil is much lighter. Yet Maranville goes on day after day in the toughest position on the field, still one of the greatest shortstops in the game, still the sparkplug and the spirit of his club and seemingly as good as ever though he's almost 39, and has been playing professionally for 21 years. There's no questioning the Rabbit's right to the ranking of the age wonder of the game. Nobody is even running him a close second.

MANAGER BILL M'KECHNIE today was to present in the third game of the series with the Pirates another of his additions to the Boston club in the person of Ray Moss, right-handed pitcher recently acquired from the Robins.

Bill McKechnie

Moss is only one of an unusual number of new players McKechnie has picked up in his able handling of the Braves. In less than a season and a half the Wilkinsburg man has put over one of the biggest jobs of reconstruction the majors have seen in a long time.

OF THE PLAYERS who were with the Hub outfit in 1929 before Skipper Bill came on the scene, only eight remain. They are Infielders Maranville and Maguire, Catcher Spohrer, Pitchers Brandt, Seibold, Cunningham and Cantwell, and Outfielder Richbourg.

Weeding out all the rest, Bill has built up a vastly improved club with new timber. He has obtained Outfielders Berger, Schulmerich, Worthington and Moore; First Basemen Sheely and Neun; Third Basemen Chatham, Dreesen and Hunnefield; Pitchers Zachary, Sherdel, Frankhouse, Haid, McAfee and Moss, and Catchers Cronin and Bool.

LORD DEWAR'S CAMERONIAN, winner of the one hundred and fifty-second running of the English Derby, is only the third favorite to capture that classic since 1919. The only other first choices to win in the meantime were Sansovino in 1924 and Call Boy in 1927. It was Lord Dewar's first Derby victory and also the first for Jockey Fred Fox, though the latter has long ranked as one of the greatest riders in England. For Fred Darling, the man who trained Cameronian, however, it was the fourth success, and in only 10 years, at that, as he prepared Captain Cuttle in 1922; Manna in 1925, and Coronach in 1926.

DONIE BUSH played his trump card, Ted Lyons, against Lefty Grove, but though Lyons held the A's to two runs all that the White Sox got out of it was the distinction of scoring the only run made off Connie Mack's great southpaw in his last 20 innings. Lefty hurled 25 runless rounds in a row before the Pale Hose registered their lone tally in the fifth frame.

Grove has now equaled Ed Brandt's 1931 major league record of eight straight wins and leads the big show in total victories. In his straight streak of eight he has beaten all the other clubs in the league except the Browns, and has taken the measure of the Yankees and White Sox twice each. Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg have won 21 games in succession.

IT IS JUST another of baseball's dizzy puzzles how a club that can go so badly as to lose 12 games in a row can turn around and reel off nine consecutive victories in the same company. That's what Cleveland had done up to today.

Moreover, only one of the nine wins was pitched by Wesley Ferrell, without whose services the Indians were supposed to be helpless. Another feature is the part that has been played in the drive by Joe Vosmik, the kid outfielder, whose home run won yesterday's 11-inning battle in Boston. A couple of weeks ago they were calling Vosmik just another false alarm, but he has come back in a way to confound his critics.

Eric Reed

AMONG THE NAVY'S athletic stars of the future, particularly in football, probably will be found a product of Washington, Pa. Eric Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin McF. Reed, of that city, who was graduated from Severn School at Severn, Md., this spring, will enter the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis with the plebe class in the fall. At Severn, Reed was identified actively with athletics, and was twice chosen on all-Maryland scholastic elevens, once as a lineman and in 1930 as a quarterback. He captained both the football and lacrosse teams at Severn during the last year. Football chiefs at the Naval Academy, impressed by Reed's gridiron record at Severn, consider him one of their best prospects for Middy elevens.

FOUR AMERICAN STARS REMAIN NEAR TOP

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 4.—American professionals surrendered the lead in the British Open golf tournament to South American and British rivals today, but four United States representatives were within three strokes of the pace-setters and in good positions to sweep to the front in the 36 holes to be played tomorrow.

Jose Jurado, little Argentine professional, tied the course record with a 71 to gain the lead with a total of 147. He had 76 yesterday. Henry Cotton, one of the late finishers, added a 75 to his 72 of yesterday to tie Jurado at 147. Cotton is the leading British hope for the title.

TOMMY ARMOUR SECOND

Johnny Farrell and Billy Twine, who shared the lead with Cotton at 72 yesterday, had rather indifferent rounds, but Tommy Armour, former United States champion, added a 75 to his 73 of yesterday to slip into second place with 148, one stroke behind the pace-setters. Farrell had a shaky 77, but his fine round yesterday enabled him to stay within two strokes of the lead with 149.

Twine carded a 78 for a total of 150. He was in a deadlock with Joe Kirkwood, who turned in another 75, and Gene Sarazen, who added a 76 to his first round 74.

TWO AMERICANS OUT

The high totals of Turnesa and Manero made them ineligible for further play in the tourney, for only the 60 low scorers are to battle it out in the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Abe Mitchell, veteran British star, was tied with Hunter at 151. He scored a 74 today.

TOMORROW: A GREAT CITY THAT HAD NO MOVIE HOUSE.

RIOTS ATTEND RING SHOW

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—The United States team of amateur boxers, two of them national champions, triumphed over the invading Italian team, five bouts to two, last night in the resumption of a series that added nothing to the cause of international amity.

For almost half an hour the arena was in an uproar and the Italians in high dudgeon marched right out of the party after the ace of the invading squad, Edelweis Rodriguez, was declared the loser in the opening bout of the evening with Lou Salica, New York flyweight, who holds the metropolitan 112-pound title.

While they were gone fist fights broke out in the ringside rows as arguments over the decision boiled over into free-for-alls that were not on the card. The customers in the rear bombarded the ring and the ringside patrons with everything throwable that came to hand.

Once the fighting was concentrated on the ring again, the Italians, who fought a four-four draw with the United States team a few weeks ago and have never been defeated in a team match since winning the Olympic boxing championship in 1928, went down to rapid defeat. The American youngsters won five of the first six bouts.

Woods Run School Wins Track Meet

The Woods Run Sixth Grade athletes won the fifth annual North Side District grade school track and field meet at Oliver Field yesterday with 50½ points. Horace Mann was second with 35, Mary J. Crowley third with 33, Lockhart fourth with 16 1-5, Halls Grove fifth with 13½, East Park sixth with 12 and Fineview seventh with 12.

Angelo Vergona, of Swissvale, Frank Klaus' up-and-coming young featherweight boxer, asks that in the future his name be spelled that way and not Vergione, which is incorrect, but the way it always has appeared in print . . . Angelo boxes the semi-final at Hickey Park tonight against Frank Bojorski, Erie southpaw, and is in a stride which he hopes will land him main bout recognition soon . . .

Angelo Vergona of Alliance, O.

He has been boxing for going on to six years and is only 21 years old . . . Three of those years were devoted to competing as an amateur for the Swissvale A. C. which also developed Buck McTiernan.

While an amateur, Vergona won the district junior-b antamweight title and among those he fought were Dan Billick, Joey Katkish and Eddie Kauffman, the last named of Cleveland . . . it is not generally recalled, but as a professional he has boxed, among others, Battling Gizzy, Eddie Brannon, Patsy Gallagher, Frankie Porto (twice), Tiger Ray Caldwell, Jack DeNeri, Eddie Speaks, Ken Hargreaves, Muscle Scholes, Jimmy Perry, Frankie Moran, Jimmy Reilly, Benny Goldstein, of Baltimore, and Benny Goldblatt, of Chicago.

Vergona's last three bouts have been under the management of Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world, and have resulted in victories over Reilly, Goldstein and Goldblatt in the order named, and he has shown the best form of his career in them, which he attributes to the rigorous training program outlined by Klaus, who preaches to all of his boys that the best asset they can carry into the ring with them is fighting condition . . . Vergona will be heard from . . . He is fighting a tough one in Bojorski and his work tonight will be watched with interest.

Frank (Dundee) Rodgers, McKees Rocks outfielder, who starred in the Eastern and International leagues last season and was sent to Cincinnati by the Baltimore Orioles in a swap for Catcher Johnny Gooch, which later was canceled, is going great guns as the center fielder for the Peoria club, of the Three-Eye League . . . GOPHER HURLS NO-HIT WIN

MINNEAPOLIS, June 4.—(AP.)—Walfrid Mattson, University of Minnesota hurler, accomplished that difficult feat of baseball — a no-hit, no-run game — when he blanked Wisconsin yesterday, 3 to 0, in a Big Ten contest.

Mattson grew more effective as the game progressed, and set the Badgers down in order in the last five innings. Wisconsin has been rated as one of the heaviest hitting teams in the Big Ten.

"Oh what is so rare as a day in June!"

Well, for one thing, a winning streak by the Pirates on the old home grounds. The Buccos today realized they were back in the same lethargic stride that has marked most of their doings in the Oakland Orchard since the season opened. They opened up with a thunderous attack on the Braves yesterday, but after the first round was finished, they became as docile as lambs and the New Englanders, aided by the uncontrolled elements of the sport, made the series an even thing at the conclusion of the second fight, winning 4 to 3 in 10 innings.

The two clubs will stage the third game of the series this afternoon. Skipper Bill McKechnie is likely to send Ray Moss, erstwhile Brooklyn righthander, to the mound against the Oaklanders. McKechnie purchased Moss a short time ago and the new member of the Tribe says he is eager to take his turn on the slab. Southpaw Tom Zachary also is ready for the slab trip, but Moss is the first choice. Manager Ens has Larry French groomed for the contest.

RABBIT STARS

Walter Maranville scuttled the Pirates' ship yesterday with a skillfully wrought squeeze play in the tenth round. The smart action, catching the Pittsburgh infield off its guard, scored Bill Dreesen with the winning run, the recruit third baseman having tripled just ahead of the cute trick engineered by the Rabbit.

You may wait a long time, folks, before you see a member of the Pittsburgh club do anything as smart as the act put over by Maranville and Dreesen. In any event you would have to delve deeply into the past before you could find the account of any similar move on the part of a Pittsburgh player. The unexpected in baseball is one of its decisive elements, and a squeeze play is one of the smartest of all the smart plays. But the Buccos generally are content to do the orthodox thing and let it go at that.

It is true the breaks were some-

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, June 4.—I guess Judge Landis got tired of just being the Czar of baseball, now he wants to be Mussolini. The jedge's latest statute plasters a big fine on any club that announces its pitching selection in advance. So now if you ask a manager who he's going to pitch tomorrow, he just blushes and says: "I don't know whether I'll use my mystery man or the masked marvel. Or maybe it will be Mr. Zero or Madame X." Do you get the idea? The pitcher will be anonymous or nothing. And to cross up the gamblers some more, the jedge could make Lefty Grove pitch right-handed in practice and Dazzy Vance put on Trader Horn whiskers for a disguise.

SENATORS REMAIN AT HEELS OF ATHLETICS

City Senior, Junior High School Track Title Meet on Card Today

GIANTS EVEN SERIES WITH CARDINALS

Associated Press.

Although their cause seems more or less hopeless in the face of the Athletics' phenomenal streak, Walter Johnson's Washington Senators are living up to their promise to give the champions a run for their money in the American League.

While the New York Yankees have dropped back, the last fortnight, the Senators have plugged doggedly along, winning 10 of their last 14 engagements and keeping within hailing distance of the fast-traveling leaders. They are firmly established in second place, five games behind the Mackmen and two ahead of the Yankees.

The champions yesterday registered their twenty-third victory in their last 26 starts. Lefty Grove, pitching his eighth straight win, let the Chicago White Sox down with six hits and beat them, 2 to 1.

BURKE HURLS WELL

Washington kept pace with its second straight over the visiting Firemen from Detroit, also by a 2-to-1 margin. Bob Burke, young southpaw, allowed only three hits to best Vic Sorrell in a tight mound duel.

Joe Vosmik, rookie outfielder, cracked a home run in the eleventh inning to give the Cleveland Indians their ninth straight victory at the expense of the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4.

The western clubs gained an even break for the day when the St. Louis Browns, personally conducted by Oscar Melillo, beat out an 8 to 6 triumph over the Yankees.

Matters stood all square after two days of National League warfare west of the Alleghenies. The New York Giants came back to lick St. Louis, 9 to 5, and again climb within a game and a half of the top, and the Chicago Cubs staged a last-inning rally to down Brooklyn, 9 to 8, and even their series.

MITCHELL BEATS CARDS

Crafty Clarence Mitchell went the route against the Cardinals, while the Giants piled up 14 hits off Jess Haines and four hurlers who followed him. The Robins contracted a bad case of the fumbles in the last inning to break their five-game winning streak.

Dreesen's triple, followed by Rabbit Maranville's squeeze bunt, gave the Boston Braves a run to nose out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

Eppa Rixey, veteran Cincinnati lefthander, turned the slugging Phillies back with four hits as the Reds squared their series, 3 to 1.

'Sweeps' Winner Figures Way to Beat Tax

LONDON, June 4.—(AP.)—Joseph Kennedy, an oiler on the steamship American Banker, "broke down" last night and confessed to his friends that he was the American holder of the lucky $150,000 ticket on Cameronian, winner of the Derby at Epsom Downs.

In spite of news from the United States that the winner was Joseph Kennedy, a Jamaica Negro, who also lives in Boston, the waterfront friends of Joseph Kennedy, the oiler, insisted on giving a party for him by way of congratulation.

He said, however, that he was still puzzled to know how his Boston address was given, because he gave the address of a Silvertown public house, with a view to escaping the American income tax if he won.

MARTIN SCORES SHUTOUT WIN

Abe Martin was in shutout form last evening, and the North Side Buicks were the victims. The Dormont star gave up only five hits, rapped out a pair of doubles himself, and Dormont won, 8 to 0, in a City League feature.

In the C. and I. League, Reliance Life registered a comeback and defeated the B. and O. nine, 4 to 1, while the Champion Coalers were nosing out Joseph Hornes, 4 to 3.

Linwood defeated the Griffins, 7 to 4, in a West Penn League contest. Edgewood blanked the Iroquois entry in the Greater Pittsburgh League, 4 to 0.

The Union Printers defeated the Lineys, 6 to 3, and St. George walloped De Mor, 14 to 6, in North-South circuit fracases. Colliers trimmed Sonora in the Central League, 12 to 2. The D. J. Brodericks defeated Mifflin, 10 to 9, in a Steel City League fray.

The Homestead Grays were held to a 6-6 tie by the Butler County League All-Stars at Butler. A triple by Andy Palace with the bases loaded in the eighth inning forced the deadlock.

Whitaker downed Beechview, 6 to 3; Harrisons won over Braddock, 11-7; Mayview defeated Canonsburg, 11-5; St. Clair Frogs downed the Mud Turtles, 11-8; Swissvale won over Greenfield, 4-2, and Crawfords upset Crafton, 7-1, in other independent tussles.

MAXIE LOSES SPARRING AID

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 4.—(AP.)—The first casualty among Max Schmeling's sparring partners was recorded yesterday when Charles Wepner, New York, was carried from the ring with a sprained ankle after having been sent to the mat by a short right punch from the big German battler.

Schmeling, training here for his heavyweight title bout with W. L. (Young) Stribling at Cleveland June 3, boxed two rounds with Wepner and two with Tiny Debolt, of Cleveland, and rounded off the day with heavy bag work, calisthenics and a long sun bath.

He will be idle today, but will box again tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

Reds Sell Sigafoos To Hoosier Club

CINCINNATI, June 4.—(AP.)—Frank Sigafoos, utility infielder, was sold today by the Cincinnati Reds to the Indianapolis American Association club.

Acquisition yesterday of Clyde Beck from the Cubs made it necessary to dispose of Sigafoos to keep within the player limit.

FRENCH READY FOR BRAVES

what against the Pirates yesterday, but a good ball team will often offset the frowns of Lady Luck. It was a bad-hopping ball that put the Braves in the game, a grounder that probably would have resulted in a double play had the sphere bounded true; moreover, the Braves scored a lucky run on a fluke double to right with two out, yet when they carried the game into extra rounds they had a smart stunt ready to decide the fight.

DREESEN HITS TRIPLE

It was Recruit Dreesen who smacked out the triple that blended so beautifully with the Maranville squeeze play. The third baseman rifled a liner into the right-center pocket with one out in the tenth. Rabbit took a cut at one ball and fouled it off. Then he decided to dump the sphere on the grass, but before he did so he gave the "go" sign to his teammate, who was in high and almost at the plate when the perfect bunt was fielded by Bill Regan. Maranville was clever enough to get the ball out of the reach of Ervin Brame, who was one of the principal victims of the play.

Brame pitched in a fine manner. It looked like school was out for the Pirates in the eighth when, with Brother Lloyd on third and two out, Capt. Traynor smacked a liner toward left. The score was tied at 2-all, and Lloyd was ready to register the important tally when, lo and behold, the Rabbit jumped up and hauled in Traynor's drive with one hand. Yes, the Pirates saw plenty of misfortune, but the fact remains they have not shown themselves a smart ball club in many spots.

Jim Mosolf, playing the right-field role for the Buccos, slammed a long homer into the rightfield stands with Lloyd Waner aboard in the first round. This drive on Bruce Cunningham gave rise to the hope that the Pirates would massacre the Tribe in the second game, but from the first to the sixth Cunningham did not allow another hit.

LANCE COMES THROUGH

Lance Richbourg came off the bench to bat for Cunningham in the seventh with runners on third and second and one out. The bad-hopping grounder mentioned previously helped to set the stage for this situation, the Pirates being one in front at the time. Lance singled to score both runs and the Pirates were licked as late at the eighth, when the tall Kentuckian took the matter of forcing a deadlock into his own capable hands.

SCOTTIES HOLD SECOND PLACE

The efforts of the Scottdale Scotties to remain in full possession of second place in the Middle Atlantic League were attended with success yesterday in a closely contested struggle with Fairmont. The Scotties nosed the Black Diamonds out, 5 to 4, despite a three-run rally in the ninth by the Diamonds.

Cumberland made it five in a row by walloping Wheeling, 6 to 1. Tamulis pitched in great form, permitting but three hits.

Hagerstown remained on the heels of Scottdale and half a game ahead of Charleston by defeating Charleroi, 9 to 5. Both teams used two hurlers. Johnstown hit at opportune moments behind Thompson's fine hurling to beat Charleston, 3 to 1.

At Huntington, Altoona lost again, 9 to 8. Huntington secured 18 safe hits from three Altoona hurlers. Clarksburg defeated Beckley in a 10-inning game, 7 to 3. Beckley's defense going to pieces in the overtime stanza.

With two games in the West Penn League, and three in the City loop, together with the first appearance of the Pittsburgh Coal nine at Magee Field, opposing the Rieck-McJunkin entry, fans are assured of a high-class sandlot card this evening.

The Coalers, with Hale on the mound, promise the unbeaten Rieck nine a tough battle. Hale is a fine twirler. The former minor leaguer is going to win plenty of ball games in the C. & I. loop.

ACES UNBEATEN

Now that Reliance has been beaten in the West Penn, the fans in the district will watch with interest the doings of the Homestead Aces. Jack Fertig's stellar outfit has yet to taste defeat. The Martin club, of Garfield, opposing the Steel Workers this evening, are sure to give the Aces a real fight.

In the City League the league leaders from Homewood meet the N. S. Civics, who have a knack of beating top-notchers. The game will be played at the Salt Works grounds. North Side Buicks visit Book Shoe. Olympia Park fans should see a fight. The other game brings the Dormont club to Bloomfield to meet the J. L. Thomas nine.

LATROBE, WHITNEY MEET

Two important fights loom in the Westmoreland County League. Latrobe Cardinals go to Whitney, and the Derry Independents to Derry Township.

St. Elizabeth, leading the Steel City League, will get plenty of trouble at Hays Borough when the Caruso club is met. The Hays boys recently played a tie game with the Pasquale club.

SCHOOL GOLF FINAL TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The championship of the Interscholastic Golf Conference will be decided this afternoon over the links of the Alcoma Country Club as Kiski, winner of the title in Section I, and McKeesport High School, champ in Section II, clash in a playoff match.

Both squads romped through their respective section schedules without suffering a defeat. No team counted more than five points against the crack Kiski squad, which rules a strong favorite to defeat the Tubers today. The prep school team is led by Billy Marks, one of the ranking junior golfers of the district.

Today's loser will meet Shady Side Academy for the second-place trophy. This match will be played next week at a site yet to be selected.

Second Hole in 1 Scored at South Park

Playing in a foursome with Mrs. Louvola, Mrs. Billy DeFazio and Mrs. James Comoroda, Louvola sank his tee shot on the fifteenth hole, 175 yards long and a par 3 layout.

P. E. Wiggins accounted for South Park's first hole in 1 last Saturday, on the par 3, 153-yard eighth hole.

Tri-State League Sets Court Plan

The directors of the Tri-State Association for the Selection of Basketball Officials met last night at the P. A. A. and adopted a plan of operation. The method of procedure will be much the same as is employed in the selection of football officials.

At the next meeting of the board, schedules of the members of the association will be submitted and the work of assigning officials begun.

Steinke-Shikat To Grapple Here

A preliminary time-limit match that overshadows the two finish bouts has been arranged for the wrestling card at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Tuesday night. It will be between Hans Steinke, giant German, and Dick Shikat, former world championship claimant.

Steinke will have a big advantage in weight, but in Shikat he meets one of the most scientific grapplers in the game today.

FLEMING MAY CRACK MARKS IN SPRINTS

By JESS CARVER

High school track and field competition for the lads and lassies of the city does a fade-out today with the staging of the annual championship meets for boys and girls. The boys, both junior and senior, will match efforts at Schenley Oval, with the lassies holding forth on the Schenley High School athletic field.

The race for team honors in the boys' meet appears to be between Westinghouse and Peabody. Both boast outstanding individual stars. Fleming, of Westinghouse, the sprinter and broad jumper, and Morman, of Peabody, the state hurdle champion, being fine examples. The Westinghouse Negro star may establish a pair of new marks, as he will make a vigorous effort to crack his own record in the 440 and the old time of 10.2 for the century.

Fleming, who has held the state title in the quarter-mile for the past two years, will defend his laurels in both the 440 and the 220 and will seek to add the century crown to his already impressive list of awards. Morman is the odds-on favorite to annex the hurdle championship.

Twenty-three junior and senior squads will compete in today's meets.

CARD DIAMOND SERIES

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 4.—The Greensburg Generals and the Jeannette Independents, recently organized, have reached an agreement to play a home and home series of games this summer. The first game will be played in Jeannette Saturday while later the scene will be shifted to Greensburg.

LOCAL FISTIC FANS HAVE BIG NIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Two big fistic events hold the attention of local fans tonight. They are the return battle between Tony Herrera, of Chicago, and Cowboy Eddie Anderson, of Wyoming, in the windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, and the New York debut of Buck McTiernan, local middleweight star, against Ignacio Ara, hard-hitting Spaniard, in the 10-round semi-final to a middleweight elimination clash between Vince Dundee and Ben Jeby in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Tony Herrera

McTiernan is in a good, and, at the same time, a tough spot. If he beats Ara, who will enter the ring the favorite, he will be sitting pretty to make a lot of money in a short time in New York, yet he faces probably the most severe test of his career to date. He left Tuesday night for the scene of battle to get in a good night's rest there before the fight.

FORMER BOUT CLOSE

The Herrera-Anderson battle shapes up as a choice morsel for the fans. The pair fought one of the best bouts of the past indoor season at Motor Square Garden, with Herrera winning the referee's decision after one of the judges had voted for Anderson. That was on December 8. Herrera long has been a favorite here, while Anderson, with his generalship and showmanship also has captivated the cash customers.

Angelo Vergona, of Swissvale, boxes Frank Bojorski, highly-touted Erie youngster, in the eight-round semi-final at Hickey Park. Al Farone, of the West End, meets Don Frazier, of the Hill, in a return bout in the second number, and Floyd Jennings and Al Rettinger, newcomers, are in the opener, at 8:30.

Rock Island Dividend Action Will Affect Frisco Income

The cut to $4 basis in the Rock Island dividend from the $5 rate means, among other things, a reduction of 25 per cent in the amount of income which the Frisco will derive from its investment in the road. Considering the fact that the Rock Island had been selling in the open market to yield a return of nearly 22 per cent, it is apparent that the dividend reduction was not nearly so drastic as had been generally anticipated. Declaration of a quarterly payment of $1 a share, however, did not help the common stock much. But payment of the regular semi-annual dividends on the preferred issues brought a marked change in the position of the senior stocks yesterday. The 6 per cent issue had broken 32 points last Friday and the 7 per cent stock 20 points the same day.

Announcement by several leading banks of a reduction in their margin requirements on stock exchange collateral was a development which proved distinctly helpful to sentiment yesterday. This action followed close on the heels of reports current little more than a week ago that some of the leading institutions had made such a move without definitely announcing their stand. At that time it was reported that some of the big institutions had reduced their requirements from 30 to 25 per cent, or in other words raised the value of stocks for loans from 70 to 75 per cent. The Guaranty Trust and the Chatham Phenix National dropped the margin requirements from 25 to 20 per cent or conversely raised the loan value of stocks from 75 to 80 per cent. Such action must be taken to indicate that banks are satisfied stocks such as are acceptable as loan collateral have reached comparatively safe levels in the open market.

The short interest found its position becoming increasingly uncomfortable as yesterday's session progressed and unusually urgent covering brought the most impressive rally seen in several weeks as trading worked into the afternoon period. There was brisk bidding for Steel common at intervals at levels a point or so above prices ruling on the tape. And much the same condition ruled in some of the other speculative favorites like American Telephone, General Motors, American Can, Atchison, New York Central and Union Pacific. The ease with which these stocks moved forward indicated plainly that shorts seeking to cover were being forced to bid for their requirements. Because of the fact that nearby offerings were extremely light in volume, this was particularly true of the railroad stocks as a group.

Estimates are that National Distillers showed earnings in the neighborhood of $1.50 a share in the first four months of the current year. Making allowance for some letdown later, it is predicted that the year's results will reach approximately $2.50 a share. This would be more than double the $1.23 shown for 1930. Liberalization of government regulations covering the use of medicinal whisky has benefited the business of the company so far this year.

United Fruit's record shows that while profits have fluctuated without a clearly defined trend during the past decade, net has always been satisfactorily in excess of dividend requirements. Last year United's net income was $4.24 a common share, as compared with $6.78 in 1929. This year's results will be affected to some extent by adverse sugar operations, but in some local quarters it is believed other divisions will do quite well. For the first 1931 quarter $1.06 was shown, against $1.30 in the corresponding period of 1930.

Advices from Canada state that sales of nickel by the International Nickel Company have been holding up remarkably well and are approximately at the rate reached in March and April. The big turn in nickel sales came in March, according to interests close to the company, with volume holding well since. The company's stock naturally has been affected by conditions in the copper metal trade. For this reason any change for the better in copper also will be reflected in increased speculative interest in Nickel's stock.

Brokerage Cuts Margin Demands

Hornblower & Weeks have reduced marginal requirements on stocks above $25 a share to 20 per cent of selling price. Below $25 a share the margin has been cut to $5 a share.

The firm announces that it will carry on margin any active stock above $5 a share listed on the stock exchange.

72 OCTANE RATING

There's no disputing this fact

BLUE SUNOCO
THE ONLY TRUE BLUE

rates "72 octane"

Average of regular priced gasolines 59

Octane rating has been adopted by the Society of Automotive Engineers as the method for measuring anti-knock value of motor fuels.

Authorities agree that gasoline over 70 octane rating is essential for modern high compression motors. Premium priced fuels substantiate this fact by having an average octane rating of 73 7/10 (U. S. Bureau of Mines Report, March, 1931).

BLUE SUNOCO (by the same method of testing) 72+

This premium rating of BLUE SUNOCO, which in and around this city has advisedly been held at 72+, proves it is a high powered, knockless, quality motor fuel . . . yet it sells at regular gas price. You save at least 3c per gallon.

How OCTANE RATING Is Determined

Into the head of the testing motor is placed the Midgely Bouncing Pin, a scientific instrument which forms an electrical contact when the motor knocks.

The contact caused by the engine knock is at once registered electrically on a dial.

The motor is run on the gasoline whose octane rating is to be measured. The load on the motor is increased until the dial registers knocking.

Without stopping the motor, the gasoline is cut off, and the motor is run, with the same load, on a mixture of octane and heptane.

Different mixtures are tried until the dial again registers knocking. The percentage of octane in the mixture in use at that time is the octane rating of the gasoline.

Octane is a fluid costing $25.00 a gallon. Running on octane, a motor cannot be made to knock. Heptane is another costly liquid. Using heptane, however, a motor knocks violently.

Therefore, the higher the percentage of octane in the mixture of octane and heptane, which matches the gasoline being tested, the better is the knockless performance and the higher is the octane rating of that gasoline.

BLUE SUNOCO will not make gum deposits in any motor . . . neither will any other good gasoline

RALLY IN RAILS LIFTS STOCK MARKET

List Resumes Advance After Some Hesitation; U. S. Steel Crosses 91

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP.)—The stock market refused to be depressed by quick profit-taking today and after some hesitation in the earlier hours resumed its advance under the stimulating leadership of an active rally in the rails. Bonds also improved.

Realizing sales followed an irregular opening but declines on this sort of selling were confined to moderate proportions and the appearance of support discouraged professional bears who had regarded yesterday's boom as temporary. Rails seemed to be helped by news that the Interstate Commerce Commission had permitted the Great Northern to increase freight rates on coal into the northwest.

Net gains of 3 to 4 points or more were common in the carrier stocks. Industrials and utilities rallied less vigorously, but United States Steel crossed 91.

Wall street decided not to pass too hasty a judgment on the rapid recovery. The market has reached several so-called selling climaxes in the last 20 months only to swing into a reaction, and brokerage houses wanted to await its performance under fire before venturing a belief that an important turning point had been reached. It was recalled that after the last sharp rebound a few weeks ago the market dropped just as quickly as it had risen.

Investment banking houses got a big surprise in the size of the oversubscription to the new government bond issue, although a heavy demand had been expected.

Brokers began to pass on to their customers the lower margin requirements of the banks and several firms brought their own demands down to the new rates in the hope of awakening public interest.

News from trade and industry was scant. Endicott Johnson rallied briskly despite the first reduction in the shoe company's dividend; possibly an omission had been looked for. Woolworth's May sales were off 4.7 per cent in comparison with 1930, but part of the loss was attributed to the fact that this year Memorial Day fell on a Saturday, and a Saturday's business is worth roughly a million dollars to the company, President Parsons said there had been a steady increase since April 1.

There were no developments in the money market and the 1½ per cent call loan renewal rate still held.

European Credit Situation Clears

PARIS, June 4.—As a result of the prompt measures taken by central and private bankers to defend Austrian exchange and to extend credits to the Austrian Credit Anstalt, there is every indication that Europe now will successfully weather the storm which was produced by what responsible banking quarters describe as the biggest bank failure in history.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to 7 points higher. The demand was not aggressive and subsequently the market reacted. By the end of the first half hour prices showed losses of 2 to 3 points.

The decline extended to 8.19c for July and 9.08c for December, representing net losses of 5 to 6 points. Covering and trade buying absorbed contracts on the decline, however, and the market became steadier although somewhat irregular. Around midday July was quoted at 8.34c and December at 9.13c, or within a point or two of the previous close, with trading quiet.

Banks Withdraw Stocks From Exchange

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange announced yesterday that there will hereafter be no trading in bank stocks on the exchange. The action follows a decision of the majority of the local banks, members of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association, to withdraw their stocks from open trading on the floor. It is in line with similar action taken by New York banks some time ago.

An announcement by an official of the local exchange says:

"Sales on the exchange do not reflect the real value of the securities so handled, and in the future such trading in the stocks in the institutions in question will be handled on the 'over-the-counter' market."

Foreign Copper Price Is Reduced

LONDON, June 4.—Copper Exporters, Inc., has reduced the foreign price of copper to the equivalent of 8.525 cents a pound c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London, a reduction of ¼ cent.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Foreign copper sales this morning amount to 3,500,000 pounds, due to the reduction of ¼ cent a pound in the foreign price. The foreign price, however, is still ¼ cent above domestic parity, as copper is available in the domestic market at 8 cents a pound delivered to the end of October.

Jersey Standard Cuts Bunker Fuel

NEW YORK, June 4.—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced the price of bunker fuel oil 10 cents a barrel to 85 cents at New York, Boston, Baltimore and Norfolk, 90 cents at Charleston and 70 cents at gulf ports.

HOUSTON, June 4.—Humble Oil and Refining Company has reduced gasoline two cents here, making the retail price 14 cents, including tax.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 4.— Wheat prices made an irregular start today, the June delivery diving down more than one cent, whereas July and other new crop months advanced. Unexpected firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations were reflected by the action of new crop deliveries. June responded to selling orders induced by yesterday's sudden withdrawal of government sponsored buying orders for old crop wheat. Opening ⅝ cents off to ½ cent up, wheat fluctuated nervously, with June showing power to rally. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ higher and subsequently rose all around.

LONE STAR GAS RECOVERS HERE

Fuel Leader Makes Good Gain on Steady Upturn; Industrial List Firmer

Substantial recoveries were noted in some of the leading issues on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Lone Star Gas, leader of the fuel division, met strong buying at the opening and by mid-afternoon had advanced almost two points from yesterday's low mark. Pittsburgh Plate Glass was in better demand and moderate recoveries were noted in numerous other stocks.

A flurry in Lone Star dominated the initial dealings with several hundred shares changing hands on the first few sales. The early quotations held close to last night's final, but persistency of the demand soon caused a withdrawal of offerings and the price pushed up to above 16.

Montgomery Ward May Sales Decline

CHICAGO, June 4.—Montgomery Ward & Co. May sales were $18,547,245 against $25,050,304 in May, 1930 a decrease of 25.9 per cent. Five months' sales total $88,572,030, against $106,195,803 in the like 1930 period, a decrease of 16.1 per cent.

Company officials said this decrease should not be interpreted as an indication of current business conditions. May, 1930, was abnormal in the Ward sales calendar because the company was liquidating inventories by unusual sales effort. They said that had Ward's sales followed the current trend in 1930, sales in May, 1930 and 1931, would have been about equal.

Bancamerica-Blair Defers Dividend

NEW YORK, June 4.—The Bank of America N. A. declared a dividend of 50 cents for the quarter on the $25 par stock, payable July 1 to record of June 20. This is the same amount as paid for the preceding quarter.

Bancamerica-Blair Corporation is not declaring a dividend at this time, in view of conditions which have prevailed in the security market for some time, which have resulted in lower operating earnings.

Foresees Gain in Drug Store Trade

Mayflower Drug Stores, Inc., has issued a pamphlet to stockholders outlining the drug situation in Pittsburgh and reviewing the progress of the company to date. According to the management, Mayflower stores in the first two years of operation has developed a highly efficient organization. Competitive conditions in the retail drug field are reported on a more stable basis and Mayflower stores anticipate continued business improvement.

ONE SOLUTION of the son-in-law problem

"A likable young fellow, this new son-in-law of mine. But just the same —I'm going to fix things so my daughter will have an independent income of her own as long as she lives."

The solution of the problem is a Living Trust. The father deposits income-bearing securities with us as Trustee. We collect the income and pay it to the daughter during her lifetime. She has the right to dispose of the principal under her own will.

Meanwhile the father is able to see how this arrangement works out. He can add to the fund or cancel it at any time. If he decides to make it irrevocable, the money in trust will pass to his daughter at his death without federal estate taxation.

From the above illustration you can picture other family situations in which a Trust Fund would be highly desirable. Will you accept this as our invitation to discuss the subject with you?

Silver Conference Possibility Slight

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Prospects for an international silver conference are regarded here as definitely ended by President Hoover's letter to Senator Smoot, in which he said that important nations were opposed to such conference at this time.

WOOLWORTH SALES OFF

NEW YORK, June 4.—F. W. Woolworth Company today reported May sales of $24,117,367, a decrease of 4.7 per cent from $25,308,640 from the like month last year. Sales for the first five months aggregated $108,300,256, a decrease of 2.1 per cent from the corresponding period of 1930.

H. T. Parson, president, explained there was one less business day in last month, because of there being five Sundays, and the fact that Memorial Day came on Saturday this year caused a loss in Saturday's sales, compared with a year ago, of $1,440,125. He said:

"Comparing May, 1931, with 1930, even though 1930 did have an extra business day, we showed a loss in May, 1930, of 11.4 per cent compared with 1929, whereas this year we only showed a loss of 4.7 per cent.

"The extra day which we lost in May will come in June this year and we expect to make up practically all of our losses in sales for the year during June. We have shown steady increases in sales since the first of April."

Wayne County Car Registrations Gain

DETROIT, June 4.—New passenger automobile registrations in Wayne County, Michigan, during May were the largest since June, last year, and exceeded those of April this year by 18.3 per cent. Registrations last month totaled 6,983 cars, compared with 5,900 in April and 9,983 in May of 1930. The decrease from May last year was 30 per cent, compared with a decrease of 37.7 per cent shown by April from the like month of 1930.

East Texas Crude Prices Withdrawn

NEW YORK, June 4.—Practically all the major purchasing companies have now withdrawn their prices for crude oil in the East Texas field where production is running far in excess of proration allowables. This is the first time in the recollection of oil men that a major field has been without a posted price schedule by the large companies.

Bituminous Coal Rate Boost O. K'd

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has permitted Great Northern Railway Company to increase rates on bituminous fine coal shipped from mines in Illinois, Indiana and Western Kentucky to designations on its line in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Wheat Break Marks End of Stabilization Attempt

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A SHARP BREAK IN THE PRICE of wheat represented the last solemn rite over attempts to stabilize prices. The withdrawal of the Grain Stabilization Corporation from participation in the wheat market together with estimates of a bumper wheat crop resulted in one of the most precipitous declines in the grain market on record in this country.

The Federal Farm Board has had a disastrous history. For over a year it has defied world conditions in the market for wheat in spite of the fact that the United States is normally a grain exporting country. It held domestic wheat prices at substantially higher levels than any other place in the world. Under the leadership of this board the United States government poured millions into a gigantic and futile speculation only to be compelled to withdraw in the end and to allow the ancient law of supply and demand to assert itself.

It took a comparatively short time for the Federal Farm Board to find that artificial prices for wheat cannot be maintained in the United States unless farmers are willing to give up their export markets and to raise wheat for domestic consumption alone.

Wheat Holdings Still Large

WHILE THE GRAIN STABILIZATION corporation has given up control of wheat prices as a bad job, it still has a tremendous amount of grain on its hands. Some day this must be liquidated. The cost of storing wheat amounts to practically a cent a bushel each month. The bill for holding about 100,000,000 bushels of wheat for a year has reached a large figure. In spite of the resources of the Federal Farm Board, the expenditure of this great amount of money, starting with the purchase of wheat at prices well over a dollar a bushel, has been a dismal failure.

Not only have government operations failed to check the decline in wheat prices but the large holdings of the Farm Board are still a menace to the wheat market. The fact that some day these holdings must be sold acts as a constant depressing influence. It seems quite likely that it would have been better to have allowed previous crops to move into the hands of consumers without government interference. While the world carry-over of wheat would have been just as large without the operations of the Farm Board, the United States would not have been left holding such a large share of the available grain and this country at least would have been able to benefit from the sale of some of its large crop of wheat in foreign markets.

Bumper Wheat Crop Forecast

PERHAPS THE CARDS have been stacked against the Farm Board. Wheat stabilization operations were undertaken in the belief that tremendous crop surpluses soon would be replaced by shortages which would permit the sale of government holdings without taking a large loss. But the Farm Board was disappointed in this hope. The stocks of wheat have continued to gain rather than to decline. Attempts to persuade farmers to curtail wheat acreage have met with only partial success. It seems quite likely that curtailment would have taken place without any persuasion if wheat prices in this country had been allowed to sink to their natural world levels.

Wheat experts are in close agreement in the belief that the United States is due for a bumper crop. The average of their forecasts indicates that the United States will produce about 893,000,000 bushels of wheat in the coming harvests.

With an estimated wheat crop of 310,000,000 bushels in Canada, North America will probably have a carry-over at the end of the 1931-32 season of about 43,000,000 bushels larger than the 445,000,000 bushels predicted for the current season.

Price of Wheat 'Awfully Low,' Says Stone

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Chairman C. Stone, of the Federal Farm Board, expects that United States wheat prices will eventually establish the old differential with world prices, he said today. He stated that eventually wheat will get on a world level and added that he did not know how soon this would occur.

The chairman declared that he was of the opinion that the price of wheat all over the world is "awfully low, below the cost of production."

May Automobile Output Declines

WASHINGTON, June 4.—May automobile production in the United States and Canada totaled 338,307 units, according to an estimate by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. This compares with 352,867 produced in April and 444,699 in May, 1930.

Production in the first five months of 1931 is placed at 1,388,727 cars, compared with 1,959,669 in the like period in 1930.

Gerkes to Wed Eskimo and Reside in Alaska

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XXIV.

Rarick was saved from what might have been an embarrassing hole to have stepped into, in this friendship that was so very special to him, by the soft-footed diplomacy with which he approached the subject the last evening of Hildegarde's visit, after she had bidden good-night to the two men still seated over their Cointreau, and ascended to the mauve-and-gold suite of rooms that suited her sparseness so mockingly.

First there had been some talk of a nature that, to his surprise, was so inwardly exciting to Rarick, that it was all he could do to control his voice.

Gerkes had gone off, on the slight impetus of an irrelevant remark about the Rockefeller Foundation, upon the subject of constructive philanthropies, and from that to the more general discussion of vast personal fortunes and their dispensation.

It was like him to be able to think aloud on a subject so intimately relevant to Rarick, as impersonally as if he were discussing the map of Great Britain after the Wurm glaciation. What he had to say along lines that were fairly hackneyed, for one reason or another, set Rarick to thinking along lines that were new. A slight talk; scarcely more than the thread of a discourse, considering how far-reaching were to be its results.

"I am convinced that the basis of progress, Rarick, is prevention."

"Prevention?"

TO MARRY ESKIMO

"Yes. Prevent cancer. It will save the more expensive process of eliminating it. Prevent slums. Prevent wars. Prevent disease. Prevent social abuses. That not only takes terrific moneys, it takes an excess of imagination.

"A man will give his money to eliminate cancer. It is another matter to make a man living in a cancerless world visualize the incalculable importane of cancer-prevention. Rockefeller Foundation is a rare and fine example of subtle, far-reaching and humanitarian expenditure of acquired wealth. A man doing that kind of philanthrophy in his lifetime, instead of leaving fortunes to organizations and causes that may outlive their usefulness a few years after his death, displays the power to distribute as well as accumulate. That's what makes this little story of mankind that I putter around with a full-size job. Finding out the bad places ahead and then steering around them, preventing."

"It's a more thankless job to prevent hookworm than to cure it."

"Doubtless. But the basis of progress, I've always held, in my business, is elimination, Gerkes. Get rid of excess baggage—"

"I maintain, avoid excess baggage."

"I'm going to bury myself behind that idea some day—north—where the nights are long and cold and quiet—fit for a man to work in."

Out of a 10-minute silence that continued to be as inwardly exciting as anything that had ever happened to him, filled as it was with the words of Gerkes surging in birth against the brain of Rarick, there came from Rarick something, this laconic:

"Wonder you don't marry, Gerkes, before you dig yourself into those long Arctic nights you're always talking about."

"Extraordinary you should mention that."

"Fact is, Rarick, I'm about to."

(Sly fellow).

"Yes?"

(Could it be that Hildegarde had been equally sly? Good!)

"Yes."

"Yes? Have I met the lady?"

"No."

"Oh!"

Silence.

"Who is she?"

"An Eskimo."

"A what?"

"Eskimo. I met Illun 12 years ago on my first expedition to Mackenzie River. Her father is a fur-trader."

HIDES SURPRISE

"Eskimo!"

"Yes. Then, six years ago, I met her in Nome, where she was stopping with her father's brother, also a trader, and attending high school."

"So . . ."

"She's back in Alaska now, teaching. The Eskimos are close about family ties and the old mother is pretty well along. We've drifted for years. Waiting. But I have about made up my mind that too much is enough. Life is passing us by. I'm going back, Rarick."

"For her?"

"No, to her. Curious thing, from your point of view, anyhow, but Eskimos, accustomed as they are to rigors of climate, do not thrive in our so-called temperate parts. I do in theirs. I'm going to them."

"I see." Gerkes, Rarick figured, as he sat dumfounded would have received news as surprising to him as this was to Rarick, with the non-committal attitude of one who is the complete cosmopolite. Besides, one did not betray anything so personal as surprise to Gerkes.

"The old folks still live out on the edge of the town. But Illun, who is teaching in the next village, lives with an American family of missionaries named Anderson. For solid comfort, Rarick," said Gerkes, taking the crystal bowl of fin champagne from a butler, "I recommend a well-built Eskimo house."

"I see."

"I've work to do, Rarick. This scheme of life down here lures me away from singleness of purpose. At my best, Rarick, when I'm surrounded by the world itself, instead of its clatter, I've a single-track mind. One thing matters pretty terribly to me. Facts. Then from there, truth."

"Fine. Fine."

"I need leisure. These lectures—pah! I need simplicity. I need the long white nights for work and my leisure for the contacts with the strange wisdoms of simple people. I need to think. Life with Illun on the Colville River can give me all these. Can you understand this? Down here, everything is going out, precious little coming in.

RARICK OFFERS HELP

"I need leisure, Rarick, damnably, and my fingernails out of my palms. I've books to write. Collections to assemble. There is knowledge and truth for me to unearth before I bow out in demise. I am one of those scientific-minded hounds with a nose to the truth scent. Facts are more panoramic, more majestic, more extraordinary than fantasy. I need leisure to run them down."

"And money?"

"God, yes!"

"Would you still go north?"

"More than ever. I tell you, I'm digging in, Rarick, for my long white night. A woman who is attractive to me. Books. Leisure. Simplicity. My big work now lies in assembling knowledge. I need money for men who are still young enough to get out into the fields and feed my mind with their findings.

"I want to send an expedition to Abyssinia to do some digging there. I want to study certain of the flying bases between Nome and Shanghai. There are weather observations I want made, over a sustained period, from a Greenland observatory.

"I want men to follow up the fine excavations that Scotelly started last year before his death in Brindisi. My active years are done. Now I want to assemble and deduce.

"I'm going to give you the money for that, Gerkes."

COSTLY FAMILY

"That's mighty fine of you, Rarick. I've wondered a bit about you and your plans for making your wealth reap. The root of all evil lies in the root. As I was saying, there is curative and preventive philanthropy. Forestall the root. The great trend of modern humanitarianism, Rarick, lies in preventive measures. The way to prevent fallacy is to know truth. Buy truth with your money, Rarick; it is cheap at any price. Bear that in mind when you decide to put your terrific house in order."

"I'd like to give you a million, Gerkes."

"The world, Rarick, is your debtor for that. Not I."

"I'll assign it as an endowment to you."

"No, don't do that. Organize a fund committee to finance my expeditions as I need and form them. One that will keep me in bounds, but at the same time give me free enough rein in my choice of actual and intellectual excavation."

"And you?"

"I've saved a bit."

"How much?"

"I think I stack up somewhere near fifteen hundred in the bank."

"You'll need more."

"Well, you might allow me about fifty a month, Rarick, if you've a mind to. It will cost me around that much to afford the leisure for work."

It occurred to Rarick, sitting there, sharing with his friend their unspoken pangs at the prospect of parting, that it cost his own family about $18,000 a week, to afford leisure for play.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Bandit Is Fleeced of Loot By Shrewd Associate

The False Alarm

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

"What do you think of him, Joe?"

They were in the back room of Tony's "Place."

The back room was devoted to friendly, and otherwise games of chance, to liquids "just off the boat," and to the sheltering of members of the Cherry Gang.

Joe Tranner had become acquainted with a chap over at the docks who seemed to have some money. He brought him around to Tony's place. The young fellow admitted that in his home town, which was Philadelphia, he was known as "Tough Tom Janks." He even admitted that he was feared by one and all because of his short temper, prowess with the "rod" and pull with the right parties when a guy gets in a jam.

"Got myself in a jam—the Big Guy says I'd better lam for a while until he could fix it up," Tom explained, "so when he sent me the office to beat it I grabbed a rattler for your town on th' jump. I didn't have but a coupla century notes on me when I got in this mornin'."

"Yeah? Chickenfeed," Rusty Smith grumbled.

TELEPHONES HICKEY

"Not th' chickens I trot 'round with, it ain't. It wouldn't last more'n a coupla hours."

"What you gonna do?" Joe Tranner asked, slipping Rusty the wink.

"How should I know?"

"How about a little jewelry shop we know—we're gonna stick th' old guy at th' lunch hour, see? We c'n grab off plenty ice, worth twenty grand if it's worth a dime—and I mean twenty grand from th' fence."

Tough Tom Janks shrugged his shoulders.

"Why should I bust in on any little job you boys got planned? Besides, soon as I get me an address I send down word and a lad comes up with plenty of coin for me—my own coin. It's gonna take six months for my friend down there to square things for me. I plan to play 'round and have some fun."

"How much, a couple more century notes?" Joe asked, sarcastically. Rusty smothered a grin. Joe was leading this bozo along.

"Lissen', feller, don't be so funny. A guy don't wanna laugh all th' time. I got plenty and I'm gonna have fifty grand brought up, soon's I can send down word where Hickey is to find me."

They had their refreshments and Tom went out to telephone the party in Philadelphia he had called Hickey. Pete Mangus, who had been outside, trailed them along. Rusty slipped him word to get an earful of the stranger's telephone message.

And so when Tom telephoned, it was a sure-enough call to Philadelphia. Pete had slipped into the next telephone booth.

He reported to Joe and Rusty later.

"Sure, he asks for Hickey," Pete said. "And then he talked with him. He give him Tony's address all right and he says to this Hickey guy to go and get 50 grand offen th' Chief and to bring it to him to Tony's place Friday noon."

"Friday, eh?"

Joe and Rusty stared at each other and grinned.

"That's gonna be an unlucky day for Mr. Tough Tom Janks," Joe remarked.

PARTY SUGGESTED

"Well, let's be nice to him now," Rusty advised.

It meant only a three day wait.

The next day when Tom showed up at Tony's place the gang wanted to throw a party that night. They said they'd dig up a "skirt" for Tom and go and do the rounds of some of the night clubs.

"That'll keep," Tom said, "I got just about enough coin left for eats and a flop until Friday. Night clubs cost plenty coin. I ought to know . . . I'm a swell customer of the hottest joints down home."

The boys had discussed this previously. This was just the opening they wanted.

"That's all right, feller. We'll take you. Th' sky's th' limit. We got plenty."

"Yeah? What do you mean, plenty?" Tom asked.

They were in a huddle then, at a corner table in Tony's back room.

"Lissen," Joe said, "we got that Uptmore payroll."

"Jees! Onna level?"

"Sure. We got it salted away in my uptown quarters. Rusty an' my share. We took 80 grand because we doped th' thing out an' did th' heavy work. Pete an' another guy split about 30 grand. Sure we c'n stake you."

"That's swell—I'll say I got luck bumpin' into you."

They all went to a round of night clubs that night. Tom didn't seem to hold his liquor very well and he let a bouncer in a Harlem joint back him down when it came to having a scrap.

The next morning the boys were talking it over. That was when Rusty asked, "What do you think of him, Joe?"

Joe's answer was:

"False alarm."

Rusty nodded.

"He ain't no tough guy, that's sure. He wouldn't let us stake him if he didn't have no coin' coming up."

FAKE REVOLVER

"Sure we'll get it, Joe."

"Lissen," Joe leaned forward and started to laugh. "I seen somethin' that'll knock you for a loop—what do you think—he ain't even got a rod!"

"Wrong, I seen it, wears it here," and Rusty patted himself under his left arm.

"That's a stall—hones' I nearly let out a whoop. He didn't think I seen him in th' gents' room las' night. He lifts his rod out and what you guess he done?"

Rusty shook his head.

"He pushed a spring or somethin' an' it was no rod, it was a fake. It opened up and was full of cigarets."

Rusty stared at his friend and then he began to laugh.

"But what's his idea?"

"Aw, he knows he's a false alarm, see? He's probably clever in th' dope game, but didjer see how yeller he was over at Sam's place in Harlem? He just bluffs, get me?"

Rusty nodded slowly.

"Yeah—guess you're right. He can't even handle his liquor. Wonder if he sniffs?"

"Naw—he's too healthy lookin'. Them guys that make big coin peddlin' to dopes are too wise to use th' stuff."

"Nix, Joe."

"——an' out about 50 miles we'll beat him up an' leave him flat. We'll get back to my place, take th' coin and lam for Miami. How's 'at strike you?"

Rusty and Joe shook hands on it.

"Not a penny on him, see? He'll try to hitch-hike back, or maybe get pinched, but he won't come back to us, that's a bet, only we're gonna be gone with our coin an' his."

So they all flattered Tough Tom Janks and staked him to a few hundred more. They had quite a party, but Joe saw to it that Tom was up and at Tony's place at noon the next day, which was Friday.

ESCAPES WITH MONEY

Sure enough, about a quarter past noon, when Joe and Rusty were beginning to get suspicious, a man walked through, followed by Tony, who was trying to hold him back.

"That's all right, Tony," Tom called out, and then he said, "Hello, Hickey—how's th' chief down home?"

Hickey came over and sat down. He timorously acknowledged introductions and from a big pocket inside his vest he produced a fat leather case which he handed to Tom.

Then Hickey spoke.

"Th' chief says for you to stay away until he sends you the office, Tom—and I got to go—they might be trailin' me here."

Hickey departed. Tom seemed quite worried.

"Let's go up to your rooms, Joe—I don't wanna to be pinched by home town dicks, with this 50 grand on me."

Joe took him up.

Tom opened the leather packet.

"Aw, help yourself to a smoke outer that phony," Joe said, "I changed my plans—beat it before I get a dick friend of mine to pinch you—"

Tough Tom Janks did something to the phony gun and Joe gasped, slumped, and went down—knocked out by some sort of gas.

Their eighty thousand was gone.

It was full of money—stage money

They Cannot Be Trusted

Public Welfare Demands That Coal and Iron Police Commissions Should Be Revoked Now.

You probably noticed in the pictures of the striking miners' parade in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday several armed men, their belts bristling with cartridges, standing in the public highway, looking on. They were coal and iron police.

In previous strikes the coal and iron police have terrorized the mining camps with their ruthless brutality.

Representative M. A. Musmanno, who sought unsuccessfully to abolish the system, says the coal and iron police still possess the same powers that they had when several of their number beat John Borkowski to death.

Gov. Pinchot has repeatedly promised to revoke the commissions of all coal and iron police by July 1. He should not wait until then. He should do it now. The public welfare demands it. Experience has shown the coal and iron police cannot be trusted.

Admirable Philanthropy

Buhl Foundation's Plan to Build Homes for People of Modest Means Has Much to Commend It.

The Buhl Foundation's plan to build 300 beautiful homes on a 45-acre tract on Mt. Washington for people of modest means is admirable:

Because it represents an effort to do something for the welfare of "white collar" workers—clerks, bookkeepers, salesmen and the like—a class that usually receives scant consideration from philanthropic organizations.

Because it will considerably increase the attractiveness of Pittsburgh.

Because it will yield the Foundation a revenue with which it can carry on other philanthropic enterprises.

Many Are Prosperous

Large Section of the Population Is Not Suffering, at Least Directly, from Hard Times.

Times are hard, to be sure, but not quite so hard, perhaps, as some of us suppose. At any rate a large section of the population is not suffering—at least not directly—from industrial depression.

Here are two bits of news that suggest an appreciable share of our old-time prosperity still remains with us:

The Pennsylvania Railroad reports that nearly 500 more cars of fresh fruits and vegetables were received at the Pittsburgh produce yards last month than in May last year, and remarks that the receipts "show increases which indicate that people are still eating, and eating more and more of this kind of food every year."

Southern strawberries are now coming in by the trainload; canteloupes at the rate of eight or ten cars a day, and tomatoes from Mexico, Texas and Mississippi, and new potatoes from the Carolinas and Florida in quantities sufficiently large to prove that the purchasers are not limited to "the 400" by any means.

The other news item is the announcement of the local recruiting office of the Marine Corps that applications are so few that it has been decided to lower the requirement as to stature in an effort to fill the vacancies in the Corps.

One would have thought there would be a dozen times as many qualified applicants for enlistment as could be accepted. Evidently unemployment is not so extensive among vigorous young men of the kind that the Marine Corps wants.

Washington's Fortitude

Government Should Follow His Example and Steer Clear of Foreign Entanglements.

Next year the government and people of the United States will celebrate the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

It was fitting, therefore, that President Hoover should select for his Memorial Day address this year a place "so intimately associated with the moral grandeur of the Father of Our Country" as is the national shrine of Valley Forge.

Never did the success of the Revolution depend so largely upon the leadership of character and the indomitable will of Washington himself than during the desperate winter that he and his dwindling army of destitute, ragged and shelterless soldiers spent at Valley Forge.

In commending to his countrymen the steadfast fortitude with which those patriots met the crisis of the Revolution at Valley Forge, President Hoover said:

"The American people are going through another Valley Forge at this time. To each and every one of us it is an hour of unusual stress and trial. The whole nation is beset with difficulties incident to a world-wide depression.

"If we are firm and farsighted as were Washington and his men, we shall be writing the introduction to a yet more glorious epoch in our nation's progress.

"Valley Forge is our American synonym for the trial of human character through privation and suffering, and it is the symbol of triumph of the American soul."

President Hoover's faith in the firm resolve of the American people to go forward in the tradition of fortitude inherited from their forefathers at Valley Forge is well founded.

But if the American people keep the faith here at home without flinching, it is more than ever the bounden duty of their government at Washington to keep the faith in the conduct of their foreign relations.

No greater encouragement could be given the American people in these difficult times than the example of a government at Washington guided by the counsels of the farewell address and steering clear of all entanglements in the political quarrels of Europe.

It is gratifying to hear President Hoover pay homage, as he did in his eloquent Memorial Day address, to the fortitude of George Washington at Valley Forge.

It would be even more gratifying to have President Hoover pay homage to the common sense of George Washington by raising up a leadership dedicated to the task of keeping the United States out of the League of Nations, the League Court and all other foreign entanglements.

They All Live in India

Land of Strange Mixtures, Many Beliefs.

We all read about India and Ghandi, sincere little man of strange power, who says India's 320,000,000 must be free from British rule.

Ghandi and others say the Indians must RULE THEMSELVES and form a great independent nation.

The girl beside her, a Nayar girl from southern India, is one of the 60,000,000 "untouchables." The woman on the left in the upper picture would consider herself polluted and disgraced if she should, even accidentally, touch this young girl "untouchable" next to her. It would be necessary for the high caste woman to go through a course of purification to restore her "high caste," defiled and lowered by contact with the unspeakable outcast.

You might say: "I prefer the outcast untouchable. I like her looks better." But if you lived in India, you would know that any association, conversation or contact, to say nothing of marriage, with such a person would be impossible.

The 60,000,000 "untouchables," of many races and various religions, beg the British to remain and protect them from the "high caste" ruling classes. The latter, if they had control of India, would hold down the "untouchables" in their misery, perpetuate child marriage and restore the ancient "suttee," or burning alive of young widows with the bodies of their old husbands, which the British have abolished.

MOHAMMEDAN DANCING GIRL AND ONE OF THE MOPLAH

The other two pictures, also showing natives of India, impress on you the fact that India is a land of many languages, religions and types. The girl in the lower picture, with the ring in her nose, is a Mohammedan dancing girl. Her business is to amuse men, and she is referred to as "the descendant of a thousand years of courtesan matriarchy."

"Matriarchy," as you know, is a system under which women rule and children take the name of their mother. It once prevailed all over the world.

The fierce-looking man in the lower picture is one of the Moplah, a word that means "Mother's son." One of many tribes of fiercely fanatical peasants in southern India, this man is the offspring of Arab invaders and aboriginal women. The people to which he belongs not long ago rose and brutally massacred their Hindu neighbors of higher caste. It will interest American farmers to know that their complaint was about the difficulty of making a living on their land.

India has its Parsees, intelligent traders, descendants of fire worshipers that came from Persia. Next to the Rajahs, they have most of the money. The Rajahs, protected by the British in their rights, including the right to exploit the miserable people, are the Indian Princes, and represent the royal class. The Sikhs, military fighting Hindus, make good soldiers for Britain.

India has a strange hodge podge of 320,000,000 human beings, with innumerable religions, superstitions, hatreds, jealousies, caste rule and fantastic belief.

The marvel is that the British have energy and patience to keep on trying to organize and rule them.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 4.—The gigolo industry is bankrupt. As Phil Baker observes, they are now dancing together. Economic conditions, coupled with the decline of the night club, ended a racket in New York, the spoils of which kept some 2,000 young rakes on the top wave.

In flush days after the war, many wives who stepped out had a feather-footed "boy friend" who served as escort for pay. Most of them were Latin-Americans, personable appearing blades with olive complexions, brooding eyes, and a fund of hand-kissing repartee.

That a number were dangerously scheming criminals is a matter of police record. They have been trailed and often trapped for mysterious apartment house jewel robberies. A few were known to be agent provocateurs for the white slave milieu in Rio Janeiro.

The gigolo in America had none of the manners or morals of the Parisian prototype. While it was never considered a highly respectable calling in France, there was about it the air of toleration. The Paris brand were often Sorbonne students dancing for pin money at teas and supper clubs.

They sat at special tables with dancing girls, the ladies sent head waiters for them, they danced and the charge was on the check. No money was permitted exchanged between them and employers. Nor did they converse with partners, unless encouraged.

Yet in New York, they had great freedom. They were carried about to various affairs by foolish women who paid the tariff. Busy husbands permitted them in their homes and seemed to think it was all right for them to appear in public with their wives.

Three very wealthy New York women deserted their husbands and married gigolos. A very rich 72-year-old widow eloped to Europe with one and married him in St. Moritz. They are now touring the Far East together. But stern reality has wiped out another post-war madness.

Just when I am determined to turn out a serious column something arrives at my desk to give me the simples. This time it is a special delivery inquiring if Helen Twelvetrees has a foresty complex? And it has me wondering, if such is the case, if it is for cow oak, quaking asp, shagbark hickory or just plain chestnut. Lots of sap here somewhere. Maybe she's an "ad" for the Davey tree folks! Or a relative of Al Woods. And will someone page Sam Forrest?

* * *

And somehow even at this late date I cannot figure out why Theodore Dreiser, after receiving $150,000 for "An American Tragedy" movie rights, wants to sue because they desired to change it. For that sum I'd let them change it into a zebra's elbow and toss in my Aunt Ida's hand-painted wash rag for a keepsake.

Mr. Dreiser, to me, always has the owlish look of surprise, the forlorn radiance of the unattainable. A word describing him better, perhaps, is eerie—and don't confuse this with those who have been hit by the Erie! He is a master craftsman. One of the very best in his line. Yet it doesn't seem to me he should take it all so seriously. After all it is only writing books. Peggy Joyce does that.

Miss Gahagan, incidentally, is the most graceful lady for her size I ever beheld in the theater or out.

OERSTED'S HAPPY 'FIND'

By Archibald Henderson

Oersted is one of those figures in science who, by a happy discovery, set the scientific world ablaze. His accidental discovery of the intimate relation between electricity and magnetism made a profound impression upon science, not only of his time but of all time since he has lived. His experiments afforded a direct stimulus to the creative and memorable researches of Ampere.

Hans Christian Oersted is generally accorded the honors of recognition as the discoverer of electromagnetism. He was born in the Isle of Langeland, in Denmark, on August 14, 1777. Brought up in his father's profession, that of an apothecary, he early showed an avidity for knowledge and learned Latin from a German teacher. He became interested in chemistry and at the age of 16 went to Copenhagen University to study pharmacy.

Oersted had an acquisitive mind, with a comprehensive point of view. He studied not only pharmacy, but also medicine and philosophy. Recognizing his brilliant scientific attainments, the professor of surgery in the university engaged him as an assistant. His researches in chemistry, which he began to prosecute, bore fruit; and he distinguished himself by making the first classification of earths and alkalies.

When the electric battery became generally known, at the beginning of the nineteenth century, Oersted enthusiastically took up studies and experiments with the alkalies and acids set free by the electric current. The work which he did must have been of a notable character, to impress as it did the state authorities of Denmark. At the age of 24, Oersted was allowed to travel for five years in foreign countries at the expense of the state, with a view to enlarging his knowledge of modern science. Upon his return to Denmark, he was appointed, in 1806, professor of physics in Copenhagen University. One general idea, which he stressed in his lectures, and teaching, was the identity of all the forms of nature.

For this wide-ranging idea, Oersted could find little support by means of experiments. Sixteen years passed, with little or no advance. One day he made the classic experiment forever associated with his name. On his lecture bench there was a magnetic needle supported horizontally. At the time he was experimenting with a galvanic battery, and happened by chance to draw the magnetic needle toward the battery so that the wire and the needle were parallel. To his amazement, the needle swung away from its position pointing toward the magnetic north, and set itself almost at right angles to its original direction. By reversing the current, the needle now pointed in the opposite direction. Thus he had shown that, in some way not known, electricity and magnetism were intimately related to each other.

Ampere, Faraday and Clerk Maxwell all made important contributions to electro-magnetism, following Oersted's lead. Today Einstein is working on a general proof of Oersted's principle of the intimate connection of natural forces.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

It will do you good.

There you are known for what you are, not for the veneer you may have adopted. You cannot cover up your real self to the home folk.

The old home town can tell in a very few minutes' conversation with you whether you have really expanded or have merely swelled up.

The way you are received back home tells the story of how well you have been able to conceal your faults.

If you start in to be smart alecky, you may be surprised at how stinging and truthful are some of the remarks made by the old fellows who sit around with little to do.

Somehow these old chaps see through your pretentions. You can't deceive them. And they are not backward about expressing their opinions.

Comparing your accomplishments with those of the stay-at-home boys, you begin to understand that you are not much to brag about in comparison though you may have earned more money in a given time.

What have you accumulated and will you be as well fixed financially in a given time as the men who chose to remain in the old town?
